A LIFT FOR TODAY

Know the love of Christ which passeth knowledge.—Eph. 3:18.

The highest attribute of God—the essence of the Holy One himself—is love—and will lead us on to new discoveries of love, passing our knowledge to understand.

Help us, merciful Father, to love Thee more and serve Thee better.

A Condition To Correct

By BILL GOODWIN, JR.

Edenton should be ready for a rescue effort such as the one that saved Carl Forehand, Chester Weikel and Weikel's two small children. The performance on August 12 was commendable, but as the Boy Scout motto states, it is better to "Be Prepared".

The fire department does the best it can, and it is an exceptional unit. It operates a trained and efficient rescue squad, but conflicts are possible. A rescue and fire at the same time could certainly make things tense for a while.

A possible answer to any emergency would be a separate rescue unit, a squad completely independent but an integral aide to the fire department. It would be an organization with its own alarm signal, its own trained regular and volunteer personnel, and its own equipment designed for every operation.

Once a new municipal building is erected, the fire department will be enlarged. An opportunity for action will be at hand. Someone must carry the torch for safety.

Many things can be done to prepare Edenton for water emergencies, but the most glaring needs, as demonstrated by the experience of Forehand and Weikel, are organization, training and equipment.

Organization and training could be taken care of by an active, separate rescue squad. The big thing needed August 12 was communication and lighting equipment. Boats were scattered over the dark waters and not more than two or three of them ever knew where each other were.

Another thing needed is an operational plan for searching the sound. Larger cabin cruisers, with lights and radio equipment, would each take a group of small craft, with walkie-talkies and lights, and search a given area of the surface. It would not take long to cover the sound with this method.

The entire operation could be directed by a master radio station located at, say, the police or fire station. Constant fixes on positions would be made, the sound easily searched, and the safety of the searchers insured.

Ironically, the most sure-fire preventative measure was not in operation on August 12. Curtis Forehand, Carl's father, who is a member of the Civil Air Patrol, had been flying late-evening patrols over the sound. But he was out of town on August 12.

A plane in the air can easily spot a distressed boat or find a lost object, but it must have some way of alerting a rescue unit. The Edenton Flying Club has the plane and it is more than willing to fly the missions, but it needs radio equipment and lights for the craft.

One of the Civil Air Patrol's missions is to aid in search and rescue efforts, and it and the local Civil Defense can do much to get the equipment necessary. But things that are needed are finances and initiative.

A thousand dollars would buy enough radio equipment to outfit any emergency effort and buy lighting gear also. Civil Defense can secure matching government funds, and the CAP can obtain surplus radios, generators, and other government equipment.

There are, in short, many things that can be done. The only question is when. That can be answered only by the people who are willing to look after themselves and their neighbors. Let us hope that those who care will act before it is too late. Another August 12 may be right around the corner. Let's keep our friends alive to see the 13th.

Holes Will Be Left

Congressman Walter Norblad of Oregon asked the House Committee of Interior and Insular Affairs to reject the Administration's proposal to federally tax pleasure boats.

"Although the proposed annual $5.00 tax is limited now to boats 14 feet long or over," said Mr. Norblad, "we can be sure from past experience that it would only be a short time until boats 12 feet long, then 10 feet, etc., would be Federally taxed. Many states . . .

Heard & Seen

By Buff

Thanks to Charles Ray Knox, who now lives at Loganport, Indiana, I can smoke two cigars coming from Indiana. Mr. Knox became the daddy of a daughter, Lisa Ray Knox, on August 4. Of course, Grandpa and Grandma, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Knox, had to go to Loganport to see the new grandchild, and Friend Louis delivered the cigars to me.

Most of the letters received from readers are usually encouraging, but in the mail this week Duke Braswell sent the following:

"Dear Editor—I am a citizen of Edenton, and have been living here for 18 years. To show for my conduct and good behavior as a good citizen, I hold two letters of recommendation to prove it. This being true, then why is it not safe for a Negro citizen to walk to and from his home or church without the city police stopping them and searching them as if though they were public enemy No. 1? I live from day to day in hopes that our town and our country will continue to be free from such Nazi-like acts. I am not a student of the constitution, but I do know there's somewhere in it that gives me the right to move about my town as a citizen and the right of freedom of speech and assembly. And I am sure in that same constitution it says I am due the protection of the law. Is it that the police lack experience or is it they lack enough work to do? I love my little quiet town on Queen Anne's Creek."

It's sort of puzzling why some people go to a lot of trouble to raise things and have a hard time getting results; when some others get results with hardly any concern at all. For instance last summer Nathan Dail and his family ate a watermelon and threw the seeds out a window at his home. Then this summer a few watermelon vines put in their appearance just outside the window. Last week Friend Dail picked off a 30-pound watermelon which he says was as good as any he ever ate, and he didn't even do a lick of work about it. Then in Manie Parker's yard some tomato plants came up at several places and the things were full of tomatoes without receiving any attention at all. Must be a different variety than the ones in my "garden" which, though putting out a good crop of excellent tomatoes this year, received about as much care and attention as a new-born baby on the part of the Missus and I.

Attention is called to the visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile in Edenton today (Thursday). The unit will be at the armory from 10 A. M., to 4 P. M., with the county's quota being 100 pints. The previous visit of the bloodmobile resulted in only 57 pints of blood donated, so that Doc Archie Walker, blood program chairman, is appealing for enough volunteers to reach the county's quota. It requires only a little time, it is not painful, the blood is very much needed in helping to save lives and donors are served refreshments after the blood is taken.

And speaking about eating, the Edenton Rotary Club will stage a free cook-out Friday afternoon at Sandy Point Beach. The purpose is for families of Rotarians to become better acquainted and enjoy a brief time at the beach. Blair Gibson is engineering the outing and promises a good time for all who attend. The affair is scheduled to begin at 4 o'clock, so that it will not interfere with anyone who plans to see the Edenton-Roanoke Rapids football game on Hicks Field at 8 o'clock.

Last Thursday night Red Men, their wives and members of the Degree of Pocahontas held a cook-out at Sandy Point Beach and, to say the least, hamburgers and hot dogs went away like hot cakes. It's hard sometimes to figure out how much food to buy for such affairs, but the Red Men figured it out so that everybody had enough, but nary a hot dog or hamburger was left.

Although air conditioners are still in operation, the football season will open Friday night when Coach Jerry McGee's Edenton Aces butt heads against the Rianoke Rapids outfit. The Aces will be a young and inexperienced team to start with, but here's hoping a large crowd of fans will turn out to look 'em over. Of course, it's still too hot for the press box gang to have hot coffee so that if there's no change in the weather, cold drinks will be in style. Then, too, this sort of weather should be more welcome on the part of the cheerleaders and majorettes, who are about as much a part of a football game as the boys in uniform.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Ronald Ambrose and Mrs. John Presley of Edenton, Mrs. Hilton Liverman of Portsmouth and Mrs. Abe Owens of Elizabeth City; 22 grandchildren, 28 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral services were in charge of Horner Funeral Home in Plymouth.

registered increases—more than offsetting decreases from sales of corn, cattle and calves; sorghum grains and minor changes in other commodities.

Tobacco receipts at $556.3 million were up $32.9 million, poultry and eggs receipts at $166.5 million were up $7.1 million, dairy products brought in 69.0 million for an increase of $2.7 million, cotton receipts of $52.2 million were up $11.5 million, soybean sales of $31.1 million were up $8.0 million, and $15.7 million received for wheat showed an increase of $5.6 million. Other increases were relatively minor.

Major losers were: Corn off $9.4 million from the $46.2 million received in 1960, cattle and calves off $1.7 million from the 1960 receipts of $34.4 million, fruits and nuts off a couple of million from the $12 million received in 1960, and sorghum grain down two-thirds of a million from the 1960 receipts of $1.7 million. Other decreases were relatively minor. The drop of about $10 million in corn and sorghum grain receipts was due largely to participation of producers in the Feed Grain Program.

Mr. Andrews says, "The upward trend in savings bond sales this year in North Carolina has been remarkable. That North Carolina ranks in the upper 15 in the nation in per cent
