

BROAD STREET BULLETIN

By KATE

Usually when we plan to take a trip, or to move from one location to another, we plan and plan for the event, leaving instructions with friends and relatives for what they should do while we are away. We look forward to our journey with much anticipation and when the time comes, we are ready. Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could all think and plan this way about death?

If you're having trouble convincing your son or daughter that thank-you notes are in order and that written correspondence is expected, blame it on the ball point pen. The theory is that formal writing has become outmoded with the old fashioned fountain pen. Once a fountain pen was a personal thing now a ball point pen can be passed from hand to hand with impunity.

What would we do without fruit, especially for the holidays? The colorful apples with their inimitable flavor make for delicious desserts. Then, of course, the oranges, grapefruit, pears, grapes, cranberries and other delicious fruits, combined with our wide variety of nuts, of which we have an abundance. By the way, if you feel blue or have the "sorry for yourself" feeling, sit down quietly on a chair and count your blessings—you'll be in a better frame of mind after that.

Lace Dress Gaining After-Dark Friends: Another fashion that's gaining friends after dark. The new-look in lace dresses, frail-looking Chantilly types, the heavier Alencon types and the still more elaborate embroidered laces. Lace dresses are practical, too. They are perfect travelers.

Household Hints

To remove stains from table linen, try pouring undiluted white vinegar on the spot and let sit for a bit—then wash as usual. This works on most all stains.

To remove mildew from rubber bath mats, etc., fill the sink with hot water, add household bleach and soak the mat for a while. After this, fill the sink again with warm water and add four tablespoons of household ammonia and soak about 20 minutes. After this, rinse again in a solution of water and vinegar.

When white handkerchiefs get discolored, soak them in cold water to which a pinch of cream of tartar has been added.

Nylon curtains will retain their body if powdered milk is used in the last rinse water.

This week's salute to the public health nurses of our district. These women, who are registered nurses, well qualified in every nursing procedure, go about their work each day, doing a large part of maintaining the health of the community. Dressed in their immaculate blue uniforms and carrying their medical supplies in their black bags, they visit the sick, helping the families with instructions on how to care for the bed-ridden patients, visiting the schools to check on the health of the school children, holding clinics for immunizations and many other important duties pertaining to keeping a health community. Theirs is a service to others, often beyond the call of duty.

ter to the needs and wants of the vast, vast majority of the people . . . those who want progress in a fair, orderly manner.

Incidentally, the coverage of the event was interesting. The daily papers of course, could only recount the events. Television was on top of it for almost three days. They were criticized by many for that length of time, but they were in a position where they could do nothing else. Their coverage was very good, with NBC, as usual, excelling. Radio coverage was varied, and, frankly speaking, I'm proud of our station. We kept with the story from beginning to end. We played appropriate music on the day following the horrible deed; we interviewed a great many citizens on their reactions; we did what we could to keep the citizenry informed in a dignified manner as possible. Robert Dail and myself tuned in a few other stations, and were happy to note that our WGAI friends in Elizabeth City were playing hymns and keeping their listeners up-to-date. The majority of stations in our state did just that. Maybe I'm over-sensitive, but I was appalled to hear one of our nearby stations joining a minority of others, in presenting rock 'n roll, commercial announcements and so on, as if the news of the day meant nothing.

On the day after the death of President Kennedy, I had the pleasure of joining Jim Earnhardt and Jim Robinson in becoming a charter member in something we hope will eventually be an important thing in our area. We became charter signers in the idea of presenting to Edenton, a Hall of Fame for the Patriots of the American Revolution.

Will resume the musical biographies next week. Right now, I just want to wish, personally, one and all, a very, very happy Thanksgiving. Also . . . thanks to Robert Dail who's doing the Reveille with Roberts show the latter part of this week, while I visit Mom and some family in Maryland, just outside of D. C. Again . . . happy Thanksgiving.

Frankly Sneaking

By FRANK ROBERTS

Billy Graham aptly stated that the assassination of President Kennedy, was the most horrifying event of its kind in American history, since the assassination of Lincoln. By this time, all of us have prayed, expressed our feelings and prayed some more . . . for the Kennedy family, the nation and the world. Some of us thought quite highly of Mr. Kennedy and his policies; others praised his foreign but not his domestic programs and vice-versa. Others did not care for Kennedy's decisions at all. But no matter which category we, as individuals belong in, we all agree that no man, much less the President of this country, deserves such a death. I personally, liked Kennedy as a man. I was sympathetic towards the great majority of his foreign policies, not so domestically speaking. No matter how any of us feel in those departments, everyone seems to agree that the President was vigorous, loved his country and was a great patriot. This man is now gone from us, physically, though not spiritually or ideally. A madman's bullet felled him. It was the result of extremism, of course . . . the same kind of extreme fanaticism that snuffed out the life of Abraham Lincoln. As anyone can tell you, who has checked the history books lately, Lincoln's assassination was a terrible blow for the South. He was replaced by a group of people, who were completely unsympathetic to the cause of the southern people. Abe Lincoln, and

When Buick builds a LeSabre . . . Buick builds a high-priced car, and puts a low price on it.

Lots of cars are in LeSabre's price class, but that's where the resemblance ends. For instance: Does anybody else in LeSabre's class treat you to that gentle Buick ride or impressive Buick performance and new gas economy? No. And who else gives you 15-inch wheels, finned aluminum front brakes, extra cushioning for middle-seat travelers, and separate heat ducts and controls for the rear seat? Right again: Nobody in LeSabre's field but LeSabre. If all this makes you think a LeSabre would look awfully nice in your garage, you should see how nicely it fits a budget. You know who to see about it, of course: your Buick dealer. Who else? Above all, it's a Buick
