

The Roundup

By WILBORNE HARRELL

A spy is a spy is a spy is a spy, or a spy by any other name would not smell any sweeter. This spy business, this cloak and dagger routine is a source of bewilderment to me; all countries and governments employ them but no country will admit it. This vast network of world-wide espionage simply just doesn't exist, the CIA, the FBI and a host of other alphabetical peaking organizations to the contrary. All governments know they are constantly under observation by their neighbors, but the whole business is treated as a sort of tolerated mutual blindman's bluff — until someone pins the tail on the wrong donkey. Then the poor agent who was unlucky enough to get caught in his peeping Tom act is thrown to the wolves — he is repudiated even by his own country. Of course, I know we have to have spies; but wouldn't it simplify matters and save a lot of wear and tear and unnecessary work and expense, if we set up an international clearing house for all top-drawer, classified data, in which all nations would share in the others secrets. I submit that this would put an end to all future wars, and that I deserve the Nobel Peace Award, or some sort of prize, for suggesting it.

PHIL OSOPHER SAYS — One must have his dreams—even if they do sometimes turn into nightmares.

When a political candidate makes the statement: I have made no commitments, he is not telling the exact truth. The very fact that he is a candidate and is asking the people to place him in a high office and a place of great responsibility, within itself means he stands committed, utterly and irrevocably, to the welfare of these same people, and to the sincere and honest discharge of the duties of the office. A public official is literally a servant of the people, but too many of them place personal aggrandizement above the office.

Health And Safety Tips

GARDENING SAFETY

With the return of warm spring days, millions of home gardeners once again are getting out to spade beds, plant seed, and the other countless minor tasks attendant to keeping the lawn neat and attractive.

Your doctor recommends gardening as excellent therapy, for both body and mind. For those who enjoy digging in the dirt, gardening offers good exercise, fresh air and sunshine after a winter of being cooped up indoors.

Your doctor also offers a few suggestions on keeping gardening fun and safe:

1.—Take it easy, at least for the first few sessions. Don't try to work a 10-hour day at hard manual labor on the first warm week-end. Take frequent rest breaks and work at a pace that isn't too tiring. As the season advances, your muscles will limber up and toughen and you will be able to do more with less discomfort.

2.—Cuts, scratches and bruises are the fate of most gardeners. Usually they aren't serious.

Clean minor cuts with warm water and soap and cover with a light bandage. Tetanus lurks in the soil, and a booster shot of tetanus toxoid is recommended at the onset of the gardening season for all who have not kept their immunization up-to-date.

3.—Stop and think, briefly, about safety before handling garden tools—especially power tools such as lawn mowers. Power tools are great labor-saving devices, properly used. Used carelessly, they can slash off fingers and toes. Always turn off the mower when it is left unattended, even briefly. Always turn it off when adding gasoline to the tank. If the motor is electric, don't use the machine in wet grass. Power tools usually are accompanied by safety instructions. Read them carefully.

4.—Modern gardening is made possible by the pesticides that dispose of the many varieties of bugs that thrive on growing plants. Careless use and storage of pesticides can cause serious accidents. A cardinal rule is to read the instructions on the package carefully and obey their safety warnings. Pesticides are safe, if used properly and kept away from children.

6.—Poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac also sprout up in the spring, to the great discomfort of many amateur gardeners. Look for the three-leaf sprigs that mark poison ivy and poison oak. If in doubt, consult a botany handbook or garden encyclopedia. If you find poison ivy in your yard, dig it out—roots and all—being careful not to touch. If you burn poison ivy avoid the smoke. The poisonous oils vaporize in the smoke and thus expose your whole body, eyes included. If you get a poison ivy rash, your doctor can suggest soothing medications to ease the itching and discomfort while healing progresses.

The soldier's trade is not slaying, but being slain. This, without well knowing its own meaning, the world honor it for.

IN MEMORY OF RALPH CHAPPELL

Seven years ago you whom we loved
Went to live with God above.
Little did we expect one so young would tread
In only one week of illness down that path to God.
We are glad that yesterday's memories lighten the sorrow
As we go through each tomorrow.

I cannot say, and I will not say,
That he is dead; he is just away!
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
He has wandered into an unknown land.

Vote For Lake!

We think it would be helpful to the voters of Chowan County who do not personally know the various candidates for Governor to know the reasons that actuate voters who actually know the aspirants. We asked J. H. McMullan to give us the reasons that causes him to vote for Dr. I. Beverly Lake, and here is his answer:

"Though I have retired from active political life, I still think it my civic duty to take a keen interest in all matters that concern my community, state and nation. North Carolina is indeed fortunate in having three men of sterling character, wide experience, and fine mentality seeking the Democratic nomination for Governor at this time. I am sure that the one who wins the nomination, will be elected and become a Governor of whom the State will be proud. My decision to support Dr. I. Beverly Lake is based on the fact that I have had first hand acquaintance with him, which gives me an opportunity to properly appraise his qualifications. When my brother, Harry, was Attorney General for North Carolina, Dr. Lake was Assistant Attorney General, and my brother held him in the highest esteem, and greatly relied upon his assistance and opinions. This association gave me an opportunity to thoroughly know and appraise Dr. Lake's character and ability. I am in accord with his political philosophy and greatly admire his ability, experience, and above all his sterling character."
