A LIFT FOR TODAY

Yes, I have loved thee with an everlasting love.—Jeremiah 31:3.

In spite of war and suffering, God is still on his throne and his promises are still true—from everlasting to everlasting He is God

We thank Thee, Our Father, for Thy great love, revealed in Christ our Saviour, and pray that our lives may be purified and redeemed for Thy service.

Welcome News

Encouraging word was received early this week from E. A. Hughes, Jr., director of Motor Transportation of the North Carolina Utilities Commission.

No little concern developed in Edenton last week when it was learned that Carolina Coach Company contemplated changes in bus schedules which would have affected bus travel in Edenton. The proposed change would have given Edenton only one bus from Norfolk south and one from Windsor north daily thus eliminating two buses coming through Edenton.

The proposed change very definitely would have caused hardships for many bus travelers and a number of Edenton merchants and business people would have been vitally affected due to receiving various items by way of the buses.

Town Council, the Chamber of Commerce and private individuals, upon learning about the proposed changes, immediately registered protests to the bus company and the N. C. Utilities Commission.

The Utilities Commission subsequently contacted the Carolina Coach Company, and the latter agreed to leave the bus service through Edenton substantially the same as it is now. The proposed changes were scheduled to go into effect June 26, but instead the bus company has agreed that only minor adjustment will be made which will change only a few minutes in the times buses will arrive and depart.

It would have been a step backward, so far as Edenton is considered, to lose two bus trips. The change would have been especially embarrassing at this time when new industries are in the course of construction, for when completed the probability is that quite a few employees would use buses to and from work.

It is encouraging, therefore, that the bus company has changed its plans, so that the service in and out of Edenton will remain about like it is now.

It is encouraging, too, that the Chamber of Commerce and Town Council, as well as a few individuals, were quick to sense the inconvenience the proposed changes would cause and that they lost no time in registering their protests. Without these protests, the change would, most likely, have been made and Edenton would have been the loser.

The Tourists' Dollar

From The Biddle Survey (N.Y.)

With the recent statement by the president of the American Society of Travel Agents that tourism had replaced wheat as the number one producer of revenue in international trade tourism may be said to have turned the corner it was long heading toward.

The U. S., with its affluent travelers, remains, of course, the key target of foreign tourism publicity. The whole area of tourist travel has been continually expanding—the Mediterranean countries have in recent years been coming more and more into the act, for one example. And many a tiny country—with the aid of Madison Avenue advertising agencies—has been advising prospective travelers via mass media of the joys of its sandy beaches, ancient ruins and dark forests.

Actually the year is already seen as a peak one for overseas tourism. One more recent development—spurred in part by the U. S. government itself through promotions overseas—has been the coming of foreign tourists to the shores of our own New World.

In the first quarter of 1964, over 140,000 came—almost 15% more than came in the comparable period a year earlier. Mexicans, British and Japanese led the crowds. And more—drawn by the New York World's Fair and other genuinely impressive sights of America—will be coming in the mid weeks ahead.

As far as Americans go, numerous developments in our culture and economy have spurred the travelers to travel. Most important naturally has been the rising level of affluence among many of our citizens. But also attention to the tourist boom are the relatively

Heard & Seen By Buff

Even before the last section of The Herald is printed this week, an error was discovered which causes me to apologize to Johnetta Davenport and Florrette Byrum. On page three of the second section appears the pictures of six Chowan County girls who last week attended Girls' State at the University of North Carolina. For some reason the names of two girls are transposed. Johnetta Davenport's name is under Florrette Byrum's picture and Florrette's name is under Johnetta's picture. It's another case of an editor wanting to hit the ceiling, but too late to do anything about it except to express regret that the error occurred.

With Father's Day falling on next Sunday, June 21, the Rev. Walter E. Isenhour of Taylorsville, N. C., has sent me the following Father's Day poem:

GOOD FATHERS

We need good fathers in our homes
Whose hearts are full of grace,
Who, by their love and earnest prayers,
Make home a pleasant place;
Who set examples that are clean
For all their folks to see,
And long to be the noble men
That God would have them be.

We need good fathers in the church
To occupy the pews,
And help their fellow-members seek
The things they ought to choose;
Whose lives are such from day to day,
Wherever they may go,
That others looking on may say,
"The Lord they surely know."

We need good fathers o'er the land
Who live and tell the truth,
And have at heart along life's way
The welfare of our youth;
Who want to keep our country free
On ocean and on sod,
And help their fellows on their way
To heaven and to God.

Such fathers then deserve our prayers,
Our honor and respect,
And never should they suffer from
Our spirit of neglect;
And by the living grace of God
We ought to boost them on,
Until their battles all are fought
And Glory's Day shall dawn.

Town Councilmen are not the only ones who get treated to ice cream after their meetings. Members of the official board of the Methodist Church had the same experience following their last meeting. Mayor John Mitchener usually invites his fellow Councilmen to his drug store following Town Council meetings and after the Methodist board meeting last week Tony Miley invited members to Hollowell's Drug Store, where they all filled up on ice cream. The only difference is that if Mayor Mitchener fails to say anything about it, some member of Town Council will pipe up, "Well, let's go and eat some ice cream."

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Wood will soon be moving to their home along Pembroke Creek, but low rates for transportation, and the efficiency of that transportation; the increasing numbers of students and retirees wanting to fulfill dreams to see the world, and the more liberal attitude by industry on vacations and time off.

The last point is an important one: A recent survey found more than 50% of companies polled now give at least one week vacation to employees with a year or less of service. All firms surveyed do not give less than two weeks vacation to those with three or more years service, and 97% of the firms polled gave three weeks or more to those with 15 years tenure; over half of these firms gave four weeks vacation to those with 25 years service.

Much of tourism's gain, therefore, has been helped by these changing attitudes. For our own country receiving tourists and for those nations abroad to which we Americans travel, the tourist's buck is a mighty big one. The tourist is there to spend.

Somewhat typical travelers to Greece this June—husband and wife—plan expenditures of over $2,500 together and for a 3-week tour. Most of this money is actually spent through a travel agent in the U. S. The couple has already put out $2,000 to cover transportation (by an American airline), hotels (booked via their agent), many meals, a 7-day cruise through the Greek isles.

One other point about tourism—this one offered by a specialist on foreign trade—is that all U. S. money spent abroad must eventually come back to our own shores in the form of trade. This is, after all, the only value of the U. S. bucks—to exchange them for U. S. goods.

In all, tourism not only makes the tourist happy, but also the U. S. travel agents, airlines—even local stores that help the tourist before he goes, to stock up on clothes, cameras and film, drug sundries, luggage, etc. For a non-industrial activity, tourism's impact on economies becomes more startling every day.

PROUD COLLECTION—Jack Small, an American who has lived in the Philippines since just after the war, displays his signed collection of MacArthur stamps. Small believes his are the only stamps in existence that were signed by the late general.

Mrs. Wood, at least, has been making herself acquainted with the surroundings. Being so close to the creek, she decided to try her hand at fishing the other day. And she caught a fish—the first one she has caught since living in Edenton. Of course, Jack McMullan, her neighbor, spends quite a lot of time fishing back of his home and, no doubt, gave a little coaching. Jack, of course, sits in a chair while he fishes, but the Woods plan to build a pier back of their home, which will also make fishing a little easier.

Edenton Jaycees got a good spread in the News and Observer the other day. The article, written by Frank Roberts, was high in praise of the Edenton Jaycees for the work they have done and are doing. And with the various projects on the program, the life of not only the Jaycees but the entire community will be enriched. To all of which here's an "Amen."

Here's one who, with Bill Cozart, attended a press conference over the radio Thursday afternoon. Ralph Scott of Alamance County spoke in behalf of Richardson Preyer for Governor, after which he answered questions asked by the two newspaper fellows. Mr. Scott was high in praise of Mr. Preyer and his remarks followed by a few hours an address by Candidate Dan Moore at the Court House. With both Preyer and Moore conducting a feverish campaign for votes, it isn't a bad idea for all voters to hear and ponder what both have to say.

and then decide their favorite candidate. Of course, Dr. Lake's followers in the first primary election are being wooed by both candidates.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CRIME IS THE NUMBER 1 PROBLEM TODAY

Dear Editor.

It is my firm conviction that crime is the number 1 problem today, and unless the citizens of the United States immediately devise some means, or have some approach to the problem, with the view of improving the crime rate, it will only be a matter of time before conditions in this country will be similar to that which exists in Africa.

This might be an extreme view, but you have only to read the papers from day to day, and see the number of crimes committed, in various degrees, and by all ages of people, especially the young people.

Both the parents of young people, largely, are working, which to a certain extent leaves the children to roam at will, getting into mischief, and being led by those who do not care for the welfare of this country of ours.

I think it is time, in fact it is later than we think, for the Congress of the U. S. to see that the laws are changed, or made in such a way that the enforcement officers have an even break when trying to enforce the law against crime, and also the law enforcement officers should make an extra effort to decrease crime, and the newspapers and magazines should bring what pressure they can to enlighten the public, and create an atmosphere among the citizens, to mobilize every citizen in each community to make this their number 1 project, and every preacher of every denomination should work together to stamp out crime, preaching from the pulpit weekly, organizing their members in each city and hamlet. The pressure from Congress, the law enforcement department, the newspapers and magazines, each and every preacher, with these four working together, Crime Will Go Down.

We used to think of crime in Chicago, New York, and Washington, D. C., but today it is in every hamlet, and I personally appeal to you to do what you can, so we will have a Country that we will be proud of.

An expression from you with any comments will be personally appreciated by me.

Kind regards,
DON G. MATTHEWS, SR.

raising drive. Our goal for this year is $2,500. This money will provide the many services that are needed in our county with a portion going to national headquarters to help cope with the many disasters that occur each year in areas that might not be as fortunate as we have been, or if needed this same money could come back to our county in the form of disaster relief.

"But we don't have to experience a disaster to benefit from our local Red Cross program. Let's look at a few facts. Let's examine a few of the things made possible by your donations for the past year:

"1.—Blood used last year by local hospital, 267 units. This blood was provided by the Tidewater Blood Center at no cost to our hospital and no cost to patients who received it. Total value for this blood based on the minimum commercial cost of blood, $25 per unit amounts to $6,675.

"2.—Persons trained in first aid and water safety last year, over 200 persons. How many drownings was prevented or serious injuries treated? How do you put a value on this community service?

"3.—Numerous telephone wires and letters to members of our armed forces dealing with emergencies at home on family matters.
"4.—Loan of grants to members of our armed forces or other weary travelers when they had no other place to turn.
"To make these and many other things possible, we need your help. We have no other source of income. We have no paid workers in our chapter. If we are to operate for the benefit of our community and mankind the world over, we must have your support. Please be generous when our volunteer workers call at your door. Remember, when you give, we can help."

Chowan County Committee For Lake

EDENTON, N. C.

Dear Fellow Democrat:

The Chowan County Committee for Lake for governor would like to take this means of expressing their appreciation to you for your contribution and support of Dr. Lake in the May 30th democratic primary.

All of us, of course, are disappointed that we did not win, but we can enjoy the satisfaction of having carried our county for the man we felt best qualified to lead our state.

As you know Dr. Lake has endorsed Dan K. Moore as the candidate who comes closer to his program for good government for North Carolina. Many of Dr. Lake's Chowan County supporters have joined him in his support of Judge Moore, and the Lake committee would like to have your support also. If we can get Dr. Lake's supporters to vote for Dan K. Moore on June 27th, we will still achieve our primary objective of electing the man we feel will best serve our state.

We thank you again for your support and past efforts for Dr. Lake, and strongly encourage your support of Judge Moore on June 27th.

LAKE FOR GOVERNOR COMMITTEE
