ran into trouble, the FSLIC moved in to protect savers promptly.

"Our association is proud and privileged to help the FSLIC observe its 30th birthday," Mr. Bond said.

"Thanks to the wisdom of the men who created and guided the FSLIC, this agency now has an insurance reserve fund of more than a billion dollars backing up its promise of safety of savings. Moreover, since the FSLIC supports itself through premiums paid by member-associations and interest on government bonds in the reserve, FSLIC doesn't cost the savers or taxpayers a cent. We can't think of a better bargain anywhere."

ogy, social work, education, sociology or related fields. Applicants who are 21 years of age with interest and special aptitudes and dedication who do not meet the education requirement for counselor aides may qualify as youth advisors. Applicants chosen will be given eight to 10 weeks of concentrated instruction in one of about 15 colleges and universities between July 15 and September 15. After training they will be equipped to interview, give career guidance, develop jobs and recommend occupational training to young people.

A written test will be given on June 27 in the Edenton Employment Office at 9 A. M.

Mr. Hollar said he also needs applications from fully qualified employment counselors to be employed by the state.

The announcement of the Youth Opportunity Program came at a time when unemployment in the youth group is about three times higher than the rest of the labor force. Mr. Hollar said that there are about 1.2 million jobless youth in the United States who have little prospect of getting a job or keeping one.

A second area of the program at the Governor's School, which is designed to augment and intensify intellectual development rather than to duplicate or to advance work which is offered in the local schools, is the "Essential Ideas" study which is concerned with such basic ideas as chance and justice and involves extensive philosophical reading.

A third area, designated as "Self and Society", has been added to last year's program in an effort to help the students learn to understand themselves and their responsibilities more fully.

The Governor's School, in its second of three years of 8-weeks summer sessions held at Salem College in Winston-Salem, is headed by Superintendent Dr. Joseph Johnston and Principal C. Douglas Carter. The School is operated by the State Board of Education with a grant of $225,000 from the Carnegie Corporation of New York and a matching grant from 11 Winston-Salem foundations and industries.

WESTERN MAN HITS AT DAN

Editor, The Times

I am from Western North Carolina (Canton) and I am feeling more sorry for Central and Eastern N. C. every day. After listening to the Western supporters of Dan Moore tell what he will do for Western N. C., there couldn't be enough State money left over to buy crying towels for the rest of the State.

Western N. C. politicians are already dividing the spoils of Dan Moore's administration if he is elected Governor of N. C. Eastern N. C. has a good tourist attraction in the drama "The Lost Colony." If Dan Moore gets elected Governor you will probably be calling all of Central and Eastern N. C. "The Lost Colony." N. C. needs a Governor for all the state and not just one section.
