

BROAD STREET BULLETIN

By KATE

While browsing in Gib Perry's antique shop recently, I found a memory. When I was a child, I remember someone having a Japanese or Chinese wind chimes hanging where the wind would blow the little pieces of glass and make them tinkle. While in Wilmington recently, a friend of mine from Statesville and I hunted there in the antique shops for these chimes, but no one had them, so I was delighted to find them at Mr. Perry's shop. I have them hanging on our back porch and so many times during the day I hear...it tinkling. This really proves that lots of times it can be the simple, inexpensive things which give us much pleasure. By the way, Mr. Perry's shop is such a nice, clean antique shop and it's such a pleasure to go there and browse.

Sometimes fishing gets real frustrating. Last week we had company from Virginia and since these folks are avid fishermen, too, we decided to go to Nags Head to fish from the pier. The wind was blowing and the ocean was very rough and fish were scarce. Buff, who admits to liking cane pole fishing the best, was the one who caught the most fish on the pier. This week four of us fishermen went again and fished off the pier and caught about 150 spots and bluefish. I do wish our Virginia company could have been there.

Summertime, that glorious season for relaxed, leisurely living. Are you finding time to relax and enjoy it? Try to avoid the needless hustle and bustle of strenuous physical activities. Instead, set aside a time for relaxation, reflection and repose. All too soon the warm summer days will give way to the cold wintry ones. Sit out under the tree, read a good book, go fishing or just plain sit and soak in the sunshine. Plan some time in your busy schedule for YOURSELF, even if it's only 30 minutes a day. Summertime is happy time.

Get out your buttonhook, ladies. You'll be able to use it this fall on some of the new style shoes. I read also that the new fall hats this year will resemble the hats of the 30's—fitting close to the head. What was good for the thirties should be good for the sixties.

Here's How:
When a heavy piece of furniture leaves its mark on your rug, try using a fork to brush up the pile in the rug. You'll never know the print was there.
To get grease stains from a rug, try using a piece of heavy brown paper and a hot iron rubbing it over the spot. The paper will absorb the grease.
A little spray starch on the wrong side of a seersucker skirt and brushing the wrinkles with your hand (do not iron) will help keep the pucker in the material. In fact, spray starch can be helpful many ways in your laundering. Use it on the tennis shoes between washings. Spray your fabric gloves after washing and they will stay clean longer.
To remove paint spots from animal.

leather shoes, wet the head of a match and rub over the spots.
When cane-bottom chairs begin to sag, wash them thoroughly with hot water and set them out in the sun to dry and they will shrink up tight.

Having an over abundance of curiosity, makes it hard for anyone to surprise me, but it happened last week on my birthday. After being treated to supper at the Edenton Restaurant, Buff invented an excuse to stop by Mamie Parker's Home and when we went in the house I was greeted by the Happy Birthday song. Mamie in her wonderful, good natured way, got together some Eastern Star members and planned the surprise party for me, with gifts, ice cream and cake and all the trimmings. I was really surprised and will long remember Mamie's thoughtfulness and her kindness. It was the end of a perfect day.
