

BROAD STREET BULLETIN

By KATE

Now is a good time to be thinking about dressing up your front door for Halloween, Thanksgiving and Christmas. Decorations for Halloween and Thanksgiving can be the same. Last fall when we visited up north, we saw so many decorations of Indian corn tied together by the husk and fastened on the doors. Tradition says that these were used long ago as welcome signs. Other decorations which could be used are artificial plastic leaves and small artificial fruit, such as grapes, berry sprays or artificial fall flowers. Then for Christmas, sprays of evergreen, pine cones, ribbons, etc., can be made into attractive displays.

It finally stopped raining long enough for us to go to the fair a while Saturday night. We were particularly anxious to see the exhibits, which were very good, but we were glad we did not have to do the choosing for the prizes, as they all looked like first-rate entries. It was interesting to watch Mrs. Willie Saunders demonstrate how to make milk and how to decorate a cake. I understand she won first prize at the State Fair for a decorated wedding cake. She was gracious enough to offer to teach me and I might just take her up on it. We passed the booth of the Home Demonstration Club from Roper and noticed their good-looking cakes, so we bought a coconut one and it was even better than it looked. I asked the lady if it was made with a mix and she promptly told me that it certainly was NOT. It was delicious and worth the extra calories.

According to the Insiders, if you like good music you have the makings of a star linguist. The ability to listen to music and the ability to learn a language are closely related. Music is sound plus meaning. Language is sound plus meaning. People who enjoy hearing good music have a natural linguistic headstart because they have greater listening ability. The Dutch and German people are the best linguists in the world—and are fond of music.

Today is the first since spring that we've had to keep the doors closed against cool weather and feel imprisoned. But outside in the pecan tree there's a mocking bird singing so beautifully that I'm ashamed to complain about the cool weather. Besides, there's always my window "to think out of."

Aydlett Speaks On Education

biggest and most important business in which we are engaged." The speaker approved the $100 million school bond issue, saying its passage will get schools out of their cycle of mediocrity. "The ultimate goal," he said, "should be that any worthy child should be able to get a college education regardless of financial circumstances. The value of a college education is increasing in startling fashion." Mr. Aydlett pointed out that the World War II baby boom has swamped the public school system for several years and that

Among the nice people to know around town: D. M. Reeves, such a gentle gentleman. Mae Garris of the P & Q, always with a cheerful word to people, Mamie Parke, with gifts of food for the distressed, and Jimmy Oglesby, always willing to help someone who needs help. Besides these, there are many people who give their time and money without anyone knowing about it. Really, there is not too many indifferent, self-fish people.

These cool days bring thoughts again of different foods and one of them is sauerkraut cooked with pork ribs or pork chops. Put a large can of kraut in a baking dish, add a can of water, salt and pepper. Cover the top with the pork and cook in the oven for one hour at 350 degrees. Serve with mashed potatoes and hot rolls. So very good! And Buff reminds me of the good old days when F. F. Muth made his own sauerkraut and annually had a group of his Masonic friends come to his house and get away with a lot of the stuff.

It was an unexpected privilege I had this past week when Miss Lena Jones took me to meet Mrs. W. A. (Ann) Graham. I was told that Mrs. Graham has been confined to her bed for some time, so I was not prepared to meet such a lovely invalid. I love meeting new people and I'm sorry that I didn't meet Mrs. Graham long ago. Miss Lena is a close friend of Mrs. Graham's and visits her quite often and I'm sure her cheerfulness brightens the patient's day.

Household Hints
To keep your storm windows from being hard to raise, apply a small amount of lubricating oil on the track.
Use an old hair brush to pick up threads and lint from the rug on floors in the sewing room. The brush can also be used for removing lint from clothes when ironing.
Heat canned Vienna style sausages with baked beans to make them meaty. Brown sugar and catsup may be added to the beans for extras.
If you find that you have too much cake on hand and are afraid it will get stale, slice and wrap individual pieces in wax paper and aluminum foil and freeze. Then when you have a sweet tooth or get unexpected company, it will be easy to serve cake in a short time.

there is an urgent need for more class rooms. He also said the college boom has begun ahead of schedule and that this year 87,000 students are enrolled in colleges and universities, which is several thousand above the highest potential estimated.
The solution to these overcrowded conditions in schools, he said, is the $100 million school bond referendum to be voted on in the November 3 election.

AUXILIARY MEETING
The American Legion Auxiliary will meet tonight (Thursday) at 8 o'clock with Mrs. J. L. Chestnut. All members are urged to be present and are reminded to bring their dues.
