The Roundup

Everybody else is getting into the act, so I may as well, too. A friend of mine saw an object in the sky which he could not explain, told me about it, with the promise that if he sighted it again he would call me. He sighted it again and called. I am interested in flying saucers, but I have often wondered if much of this saucer sighting is not wishful thinking. We hope we see one, so we do. But I am not so sure of that now. For I have seen something. Balloon? Airplane? Star? It was DEFINITELY NOT ONE of these. Nor was it any known object that I have ever before witnessed in the sky. It was intriguing and puzzling for I could not explain it. I have reached for a word to explain what it looked like and the only thing I can think of is gem. It resembled a beautiful gem. It was almost round in shape, sparkling, changing color from green to red and red to green, and erratic in movement. It remained for about half hour in about one general position in the southwest then dropping quickly toward the horizon it disappeared. What was it? You tell me. I am not skeptical where flying saucers are concerned, for I definitely believe that there are objects out there in space that are not of terrestrial origin. Objects which the Air Force is desperately trying to cover up by denying their existence. But that is ridiculous, for too many reputable people have given irrefutable evidence to the contrary. What did I see? A flying saucer? I honestly don't know. All I know is I saw SOMETHING, very beautiful, very strange—and to me, unexplainable.

Billy Graham, in a recent interview in which he discussed the California riots, concluded with this remark: "... only the beginning—a dress rehearsal for revolution." Revolution is a harsh word and one which Americans apply only to what we consider backward and communist countries. But in our smug complacency we overlook the fact that this country was born in revolution, although it was a revolution we considered to be in the right. There are all kinds of revolutions, a kind that can bring chaos and destruction, and the kind that can bring peace and harmony to a people. The American Revolution was the right kind, but if Mr. Graham is right, the riots and unrest we are having around the country are bordering on the wrong. And don't let us forget, the wrong kind "can happen here."
