county system and the others attend Edenton schools. Consolidation of the administrative units is simpler since all the money comes from the county commissioners.

We don't know the situation which existed some 36 years ago when the city unit was formed. And no one seems to know why that unit covers nearly half of Chowan County.

Small schools are almost a thing of the past. Curricula, athletic programs, student development and many other areas of education are hampered by schools with small student bodies. Therefore, the forming of a high school at White Oak School is out of the question.

Education in Edenton right now would be better if a junior high school were available. But it will be a long time coming when the student body at John A. Holmes High School numbers less than 475 in grades seven through 12.

Right now the state holds nearly $290,000 in the name of Edenton and Chowan County administrative units. This money must be wisely spent. A lot of thought and planning is necessary before the first shovel of dirt is turned.

It will be February, 1967, before the General Assembly can authorize a referendum in this matter. But it is not too late for the two boards to sit down like adults and tackle the pros and cons of forming one administrative unit.

Papa Robin sat on the blue eggs in the nest. Later, Mama Robin returned to sit on the nest to keep the eggs warm. When it became Papa Robin's turn again, he found among the blue eggs one that was brown and mottled. He asked Mama Robin about it. Said she, "I did that for a lark."

Veterans' Corner

(By George N. Musetta, Veterans Employment Representative, N. C. State Employment Security Commission, and John Lee Spruill, County Service Officer, N. C. State Veterans Administration.)

Our history discloses that a grateful country has long made special provision for its war veterans. In 1636 the legislative body of the Pilgrims enacted the following into law: "If any man shall be sent forth as a soldier and shall return maimed, hee shall be maintained competently by the Colonie during his life." Surely the phrase "hee shall be maintained competently" included in its intent that the veteran should have priority for any available community employment.

In 1865 the Congress of the United States passed a resolution which stated, in part, "That in grateful recognition of the services, sacrifices, and sufferings of persons honorably discharged from the military and naval service of the country by reasons of wounds, disease, or the expiration of term of enlistment, it is respectfully recommended to bankers, merchants, manufacturers, mechanics, farmers, and persons engaged in industrial pursuits to give them the preference for appointments to remunerative situations and employments."

In later times, a number of metropolitan job advisement centers were established in the 20's for veterans of World War I. However, it remained for the Employment Security Program set up under the Wagner-Peyser Act of 1933 to provide for a distinct Veterans Employment Service as an integral part of the U. S. Employment Service.

A—Write U. S. Navy Overseas Employment Officer (Alaska), Headquarters, 13th Naval District, Seattle, Wash., 98115.

Q—Earlier this year I collected GI insurance dividends. Need a report of them to be made when filing my 1965 federal income tax return.

A—No.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Keating

It WOULD be nice, but the fact remains you do not become an expert bass angler overnight. There are some tips, however, that will speed your progress and increase your luck.

First, you should get out and fish as often as you can. Work hard at it, long hours at a stretch. The second rule is interrelated: Use your head when fishing!

Be sure to fish when they are hitting best. Very often (especially in summer) this means early and late in the day.

Fish early and late in the season. Early spring has fast bass fishing—and it's generally easy, in shallow waters. But stay away (for everyone's sake) from the spawning beds. Actually, very late in the season is by far the best for really large fish—not only bass, but pike, walleyes, muskies and others.

Vary your fishing depth greatly. It's amazing how many ignore this highly important rule of bass fishing and always fish at approximately the same depth. On very rare occasions indeed, a bass will come up 15 feet or more to take a surface or shallow-running lure; ordinarily he won't go over six feet or so for one, and it's much the best to try to get it within three feet of him.

A good but not invariable general rule is that you'll find bass in rather shallow water only early and late in the day and early and late in the season.

Vary your retrieve. The general rule is that more reluctant a bass, especially a big one, is to strike, the slower the retrieve should be. Keep the lure teasingly near him. Exactly the same great variation of speed in retrieve works underwater. But remember that in both underwater and topwater retrieves, the chief thing is irregularity.

Try lures of various kinds. "Don't make the mistake of having a lot of lures all very similar in type and action. Have a wide range," recommends Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine.

ROANOKE LEADS THE WAY IN PEANUT DRYING WITH TWO GREAT NEW ADVANCES

- Stacked Multiple Fans
- Double Size Air Ducts

Double Size Air Duct Engineered to exact size to deliver to the trailer maximum air output of the fan system — LARGER would be too large, SMALLER too small — for top efficiency.

DELIVERS UP TO 68% MORE AIR PER TRAILER

Two stacked 5-horsepower fans produce more air than one 15-horsepower fan operated alone. The ROANOKE SUPER DRYING SYSTEM delivers the greatest volume of air ever available for peanut drying. The greater volume of air moving at lower static pressure gives higher quality with reduced fuel costs for electricity and gas.
