

CHS Pupils At Institute

"Profitable conventions play an important part in the success of the school publication," relates Mrs. Marvis Hendrix, Chowanian advisor, who recently returned from the N. C. Scholastic Press Institute at Chapel Hill.

Chowanian staff members attending NCSPI were Jo Ella Copeland, editor; Lynette Boyce, business manager and reporter; Rhonda Bunch, elementary editor; Wanda Ward, sports editor and copy reader.

During the three days of the institute there were daily classes from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M. in news writing, feature writing, editorials, makeup, sports, staff organizations, photography, advertising, budgets and yearbook production. Late afternoons and evenings were devoted to recreation, getting acquainted and entertainment.

In addition to the regular courses each day there was an opportunity to hear prominent journalists discuss topics of particular interest to all high school editors.

Other special speakers included Charles McDowell of Washington, syndicated columnist; Dean Wayne Danielson of the UNC School of Journalism; J. Pat Kelly of the Winston-Salem Journal-Sentinel; W. Davis Merritt, Jr., of the Charlotte Observer; Jonathan Yardley and W. C. Burton of the Greensboro Daily News; Jack Williams, UNC sports publicist, and Jack Lauterer, author of "Only In Chapel Hill" and photographer for the Daily Tar Heel.

MORGAN HEADS YOUTH PROGRAM: State Sen. Robert Morgan, left, shown here with a group of young people, has been named by the Young Lawyers Section of the North Carolina Bar Association to head a statewide program to help high school students understand criminal laws and the consequences of violations. The announcement of Morgan's appointment came at the North Carolina Bar Association's annual convention in Myrtle Beach.

Church Officer Wins Election

A special convention to elect a Bishop-Coadjutor in the Diocese of East Carolina, was held June 21 at Christ Episcopal Church, New Bern.

Rt. Rev. Thomas H. Wright, D.D., whom the Bishop-Coadjutor will succeed, presided.

Delegates from St. Paul's Episcopal included Joseph H. Conger, Jr., chairman; James E. Wood, T. B. H. Wood and Dr. H. C. Jackson. Also attending were Rev. and Mrs. Frederick B. Drane and Rev. George B. Holmes, rector of St. Paul's parish.

Twenty-four nominations were made in writing prior to the convention and one was nominated at the convention, namely Rev. George B. Holmes.

Rev. Hunley A. Elebash, executive secretary of the Diocese of East Carolina, was elected with the necessary number of votes in each order on the fourth ballot.

Mr. Holmes was among the five candidates on the final ballot. Consecration will probably be in September at a time and place to be announced.

Edenton Native

On Dean's List

RALEIGH — Mrs. Ruth Overman Bass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wood Overman of Edenton is among students at Meredith College on the Dean's List for completion of second semester work with a high academic standing.

Her grade average must be equal to a high B for a Meredith student to qualify for the Dean's List. Specifically, she must have successfully completed 12 or more hours of work with a number of quality points equal to twice the number of hours plus three. The office of Dean L. A. Peacock publishes the list.

Mrs. Bass was a May graduate of Meredith.

Church Group Holds Meeting

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Immanuel Baptist Church held its monthly meeting Tuesday, June 18, at the home of Mrs. Beverly Rice. Emma Evans opened the meeting by reading Psalm 127 with Elizabeth Harrell leading in prayer.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and the treasurer gave her report.

Old and new business was discussed. It was voted that the ladies visit the convalescent home the first Tuesday in each month. The ladies planned a cook-out for the ladies and their families in July.

Elizabeth Harrell and Faye Harrell volunteered to decorate the church table during the month of July.

Faye and Audrey gave a program consisting of spelling books of the Bible. Ruby Williams dismissed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served and enjoyed by everyone.

Seaboard Group Holds Elections

NAGS HEAD—Robert B. Gahagan, M.D., of Norfolk, Va., succeeded T. B. Brinn, M.D., of Hertford as the new president of the Seaboard Medical Association, a 500-member organization.

The annual convention of the association was held at the Carolinian Hotel in Nags Head.

The two day scientific program was approved by the Academy of General Practice of North Carolina and Virginia, educational committee for 10 hours credit.
