COOPER - BOOTWRIGHT

wore a matching mantilla edged and appliqued with Alencon lace. Her regal nosegay of valley lilies and stephanotis was showered with gypsophilia and satin ribbons.

The bride's matron of honor was Mrs. Richard Davenport of Winston-Salem. Bridesmaids were her cousin, Miss Cathy Cooper of Greensboro, and Miss Karen Davenport of Phoenixville, Pa., Mrs. Peter Lenox of Closter, N. J., and Mrs. Robert Todd Caldwell of Hickory. They wore floor length gowns of maize yellow linen in an empire A-line fashion. They were designed with a scoop neckline and white organza ruffle cap sleeves, accented with yellow velvet bows at the shoulders. They wore forward wattleau hats of white organza with clusters of fresh marguerite daisies. The attendants carried white straw baskets filled with white marguerite daisies and miniature ivy.

The bridegroom's uncle, Geddes Blenco Potter of Edenton, was best man and the ushers were Russell Bootwright, brother of the bridegroom, and Warren Elliott of Edenton, Tom H. Parham of Wilson, Richard Cobb of Raleigh, Richard Hollowell of Martinsville, Va., Harold Everett Hall of Chester, S. C., and William C. Deans of Newark, Del., cousin of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride wore a sheath of pale pink swirled organza ruffles with matching accessories and a white orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige linen sheath with matching cotton lace coat and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids.

When the couple left for their wedding trip the bride wore an ensemble of off white linen with red and navy trim, matching accessories and an orchid. The bride attended Peace College and graduated from Atlantic Christian College. She made her debut in 1964 at the Tepsichorean Ball. She has been a teacher with the Wilson City Schools.

The bridegroom is a 1967 graduate of Atlantic Christian College. He is employed by Allstate Insurance in Richmond, Va., where the couple will make their home.

Reception
Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at their home. Guests were greeted and introduced to the receiving line by the bride's aunt,

Mrs. Harvey Hamilton, Sr., of Morehead City. The dining room table was covered with an embroidered cut-work banquet cloth and was centered with a silver epergne arranged with white snapdragons, mums and baby's breath. Three-branched silver candelabra were used on each side. On the sideboard were antique five-branched, candelabra and the wedding cake that was later cut by the bridal couple and members of the wedding party.

Mrs. H. L. Cooper, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Geddes Potter, aunt of the bridegroom, served fruit punch and champagne punch from silver bowls. Silver trays and compotes holding party dainties were on the serving table.

Others assisting in the house were the bride's aunts, Mrs. Carl Cooper and Mrs. John Thorne and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Davenport and Mrs. Kendall Cooper.

Wedding Breakfast
The bride couple-elect was honored at a breakfast on their wedding day at the Benvenue Country Club.

Members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests were seated at a "U" shaped table that was centered with an antique silver tureen holding white gladioli, snapdragons, carnations and marguerite daisies. Similar smaller arrangements were also used. Bridal place cards marked the seating arrangement. Champagne was served followed by a three-course breakfast.

The bride wore a blue linen A-line dress with sleeves of white cotton lace and complimented by a corsage of marguerite daisies.

Hosts for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Davenport, Mrs. Kendall Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McNair and Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Burnette.

Pre-Hearsal Dinner
Honoring the bridal couple-elect on the eve of their wedding were the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. A. Caswell Edmondson and Mr. Edmondson and his aunt, Mrs. Geddes Potter and Mr. Potter of Edenton. A three course dinner was served at the Carleton House to members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

An arrangement of yellow roses, pom poms and gypsophilia in a silver antique bowl centered the table flanked by silver candelabra with white tapline by the bride's aunt,
