Why Are We "Tar Heels"?

In Colonial days, North Carolina was a big producer of tar, pitch and turpentine and its residents sometimes were called Tar Heels.

During one of the fiercest conflicts of the War Between the States, North Carolina troops felt they had been let down by a regiment carrying the colors of another state, and thus carried chips on their shoulders when they pulled back from the front after battle.

"Any more tar down in the Old North State, boys?" members of the other regiment chided the battle-weary North Carolinians.

"Not a bit. Jeff Davis bought it all up," retorted the Carolinians.

"What's he going to do with it?"

"He's gonna put it on your heels to make you stick better in the next fight," answered the soldiers from the land of tar, pitch and turpentine.

General Lee, hearing of the incident, remarked: "God bless the Tar Heel boys."

The nickname stuck to the North Carolinians as firmly as did the tar to their feet.

The Yeopim 4-H Club had its monthly meeting on October 15 at the Yeopim 4-H Club House. Members of the club were nominated and voted on to hold offices for the coming year. They were elected as follows:

Mrs. Fran Ward presented a film, "Gift Wrapping," which was very interesting to the club members. Also Cindy Davenport gave a demonstration on "What Bugs Bites?" An discussion was also carried on about the county fair, in which the club had won first place.

The meeting was then adjourned by the president. Delicious refreshments were served by Cindy Davenport.

Saia Speaks To Jehovah's Witnesses

The three-day convention of Jehovah's Witnesses in Washington ended Sunday with an appeal by Joseph Saia, Watchtower district director, for more persons to examine their worship.

"Truth lasts forever," Mr. Saia told an audience of over 1,000 persons at the Washington High School auditorium. "Unless a religion is based on the truth from the Bible, it cannot withstand the pressure of world change and will leave its adherents floundering in uncertainty as its dogmas pass into oblivion. The Bible foretold this very thing in our time."

Speaking on the subject

"True Worship Versus the False," Mr. Saia cited Scriptural examples, such as I Kings 18, to countermand modern trends to undermine standards of truth and morality. "No matter how sincere a person may be, sincerity is not enough. One must put forth an effort to learn what is true in the way of worship and walk in that way."

Saia said only the Bible can serve as the standard for judging true religion. "True worship means approval of God and life while false worship means extermination. Become familiar with God's Word," he exhorted his audience, "because the welfare of ourselves and our family is at stake."

Jehovah's Witnesses and interested persons from over 20 counties in Eastern North Carolina took part in the three-day seminar, with local ministers participating in the program.

There were three U. S. Presidents born in North Carolina: Andrew Jackson, James Polk and Andrew Johnson.
