Return Their Winter Hospitality With Swim Party in Backyard

If you have a swimming pool, this summer you can return with interest all the hospitality you enjoyed during the winter. A crowded cocktail party is uncomfortable and old hat, but a big party in the great outdoors, with the focus on fine food and fun in the pool is something else.

If your friends like to dress up, make it a costume party. How about a deep sea theme, with guests coming as some form of marine life? If they're imaginative, you'll probably see a wild assortment of swordfish, angelfish, catfish, bluefish, starfish and goldfish. And perhaps a few mermaids, Neptunes and frogmen.

Better warn them that costumes should be either waterproof or easy to exchange for a swim suit.

For Party Props

For party props, beg, buy or borrow Oriental fish kites, fish-shaped pool toys, sea shells—anything that smacks of life under the sea.

Make your menu predominantly seafood dishes to carry out the party theme. Prepare some things in advance, and cook others on the patio or on-the-spot char-broiled flavor.

The easiest and cleanest cookouts are done on gas grills, which may be connected to a natural gas line, or fueled by tanks of LP gas. Some are permanently installed; others can be moved around and quick-connected to the gas supply. Since gas heat is instant and controllable, and there's no grime to contend with, a gas grill will make party preparations and clean-up easier.

For the Menu

For the menu, you might serve Oriental shrimp appetizers—shrimp marinated in soy sauce, honey, sherry and crushed garlic. Broil them quickly on the gas grill and have a generous supply of Japanese wood skewers or big toothpicks and cocktail napkins on hand for serving them.

Have an unlimited supply of green salad, beverages both hot and cold, and buttered rolls warmed in foil on the grill.

For an extra touch that makes a good party memorable, illuminate the pool and patio with the soft glow of gaslights. Some have solar controls that automatically turn up the light as the sun fades. And if you have room for dancing—and no neighbor problem—bring out your portable record or cassette player and join the fun.

Jehovah's Witnesses of Edenton have been invited to attend the four-day "Men of Goodwill" District Assembly of the organization to be held July 9-12 at the Coliseum in Charlotte, N. C. This will be one of 46 conventions that the Watchtower Society will sponsor throughout the United States and Canada during 1970.

Mr. M. E. Beltrami, resident minister of the local congregation, announced that the gathering will include delegates from North and South Carolina, parts of Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee, as well as from other distant points. Over 12,000 are expected to attend. One of the highlights of the gathering will be the public address, "Saving the Human Race—in the Kingdom Way," to be given at 3 P. M. Sunday, July 12th.

Morning, afternoon and evening sessions will be featured at the Coliseum. The purpose of the four-day gathering is to build more faith in the Bible as a guide for living during these critical times.

Mr. Beltrami said that some of the local Witnesses are receiving various assignments of responsibility in preparation for the seminar.

Make Camp Life Safe and Cozy, Warm and Dry with Gas Heater

To keep warm, dry and safe when you go camping, make sure the gas heater in your camper or trailer

- is vented directly through the roof, never through the side or walls;
- bears the American Gas Association's Certification Seal;
- has an automatic positive shut-off, not just a hand valve shut-off;
- gets an ample supply of fresh air through holes in the flooring underneath it, or through louvers or ventilators.

Ask your local health department, gas utility or LP gas dealer where to have the camper or trailer checked to see that proper combustion is provided without using up the oxygen in the trailer.

Pack a portable Charmelox gas grill in the trailer and Mother can enjoy outdoor life even while she cooks.
