Graham Endorses Scientist On Board

RALEIGH—Agriculture Commissioner James A. Graham has added his endorsement to recommendations that an agricultural scientist be appointed to the National Science Board.

Graham noted that presently there is only one agriculturalist out of 580 representatives on the board, staff, advisory committee and panels making up the National Forest Foundation.

Recently Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee and William C. Wampler, R-Va., ranking minority committee member, jointly urged such an appointment in a letter to President Gerald Ford.

"Legislation is pending in the Congress to sharply step up agricultural research in the United States," Graham explained. "It was during public hearings on this bill (H. R. 11743) that it was learned no agricultural scientist sat on the National Science Board.

"Agriculture is not a plow, plant and spray situation any more," the commissioner said. "It is an industry which requires the expertise of scientists from virtually all disciplines. To me it is absurd not to have an agricultural scientist on the board. After all, what is all our technology if we don't have food?"

At least one agricultural scientist could be appointed to the board after May 10. Eight of the present terms expire on that date.

Mrs. Scott Opens Campaign Offices

HAW RIVER—Mrs. Jessie Rae Scott has opened offices in Graham and hired a fulltime professional staff to conduct her campaign for North Carolina Commissioner of Labor.

The former First Lady, in announcing the staff, said this week she plans to file with the State Board of Elections on April 23 in Raleigh. A reception-luncheon is being planned at that time.

Named to serve on her staff are Tim McDowell, Mrs. Betty McCraw and Mrs. Pat H. Moser.

McDowell, a graduate of Elon College, will serve as campaign coordinator. A Navy veteran and married to the former Zorodo Kernode of Burlington, he worked as a freelance writer for the Greensboro Daily News while in college and was editor of the Mebane Enterprise-Journal for four years.

Mrs. McCraw, a staff worker in the campaign of former Governor Robert W. Scott, served as Mrs. Scott's personal secretary at the Governor's Mansion during the Scott administration. She will be headquarters secretary.

Mrs. Moser, former assistant to Congressman L. Richardson Preyer in his Alamance County office, is President of the Alamance County YDC and Treasurer of Alamance County Democratic Women. She will travel with Mrs. Scott during the campaign and serve as aide.
