A Sinking Thought

A congressional proposal to create a central federal energy bank is like "rearranging furniture on the deck of the Titanic," Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb told a recent Senate Interior Committee hearing. He said FEA data "tells us we are in deep trouble" and Congress and the Administration should be directing attention to meeting the problems rather than collating information.

Celebrate THE BIRTHDAY with 13 States

A bouquet to the Bicentennial, this print smacks of pride and patriotism. Thirteen brave flowers in each square (the original design was found in an old leather trunk at the end of the 1700's.) Colors have the charm of those dyed at home long ago, on a natural background of non-cling Antron II.
