Colonial Living Day

Skills largely essential to the way of life over 200 years ago at Tryon Palace, North Carolina's colonial capitol and governor's residence, will be demonstrated for the public on Colonial Living Day, June 16 from 10 A.M. until 4:30 P.M.

The public is invited, free of the usual Garden Ticket charge, to stroll the early summer gardens and enjoy the varied crafts activities situated in protected, outdoor areas on the grounds. The summer parade of flowers (portulaca, marigolds, ageratum, begonia, periwinkle, etc.) is expected to be well underway in the gardens.

On this special date, there is the usual admission charge for the interior, guided tours of Tryon Palace, Stanly House, Stevenson House, open 9:30 A.M. until 4 P.M.

Co-op Mails Profit Checks

FRANKLIN, Va. — Checks for the distribution of profits from the 1978 peanut crop were mailed recently by the Peanut Growers Cooperative Marketing Association. S. Womack Lee, co-op manager, announced the distribution of $6,776,472.10 in profits to producers who placed peanuts with the association for the 1978 crop year, bringing to a total of $7,320,104.04 paid to producers, including disaster payments.

Federal regulations required the division of the 1978 crop into individual pools by area, type and segregation of peanuts and to maintain separate and complete records for quota peanuts under loan and additional peanuts not under contract. This created a pool for Additional Virginia Seg. 1, 2 and 3 peanuts; Additional Runner Seg. 1, 2 and 3 peanuts; Quota Runner Seg. 1 peanuts and Quota

Virginia Seg. 1 peanuts.

Also new last year was the introduction of a Disaster Pool for farmers, who through no fault of their own, had frozen peanuts or Seg. 3 peanuts and could not meet their quota allowed for Seg. 1 peanuts. The association paid out $543,631.94 in disaster payments in 1978, representing $170 per ton of peanuts transferred from additional peanuts to quota peanuts. Distribution of the net gains in each pool was determined in proportion to the value of peanuts placed in the pool by the producer.

Of the 56,000 total tons of peanuts in all pools, some 40,000 tons were placed in the Virginia Additional Seg. 1 pool. Shellers in the Virginia-Carolina area agreed to "Buy Back" 1978 Virginia Additional Seg. 1 peanuts. This enabled P.G.C.M.A. to earn income on "buy back" sales to shellers at 100 per cent of Quota Price plus cost and buy back sales to shellers at 105 per cent of Quota Price plus cost.

The association paid off the loan from Commodity Credit Corporation in January and was able to invest these proceeds until May 18. All monies received on these investments were added to this pool's income for distribution to the farmers. Type and cross compliance could reduce this profit by the loss in the Virginia Quota pool and by the loss incurred in the Runner Quota pool, for those farmers who placed under loan both Virginia and Runner type peanuts. If a producer used the disaster clause in the peanut program and had some Seg. 1, Seg. 2 and-or Seg. 3 peanuts transferred from addition to quota peanuts, the loss in the disaster pool was applied to the profit in any pool.

An accurate and detailed accounting of each individual pool created a difficult job for the association in determining the distribution of the profits for the 1978 crop. Each producer receiving a check should also receive a letter of explanation for the applicable pool in which he participated. This letter intended to clarify for the producer the profits realized from a very involved peanut program.

"If it wasn't for Perdue, I'd be stuck behind a desk"

Four years ago, I was a parts manager for a truck equipment company in Norfolk. And I can tell you, living in the city was not for my wife and me. So I left my job and we headed back to the country. Much of my family lives around Rocky Hock, so we built a new home here. And one of the first things I did was build a Perdue broiler house.

You see, I know some people in Norfolk who shipped feed over to the Eastern Shore for Perdue. They spoke highly of the company and really got me interested. I decided that with the steady income and tax credit of a Perdue broiler house, I could make a new start in farming. Perdue was really our ticket home.

Now I raise cantaloupes, watermelons, tomatoes and other truck crops. And I'm still able to produce good flocks for Perdue. In fact, I won Best Grower award last year. Not bad after just four years of raising broilers! But I owe a lot to my Perdue route supervisor. He's stuck with me and provided a lot of valuable advice.

I'm real happy with my Perdue broiler house. It means a steady income year-round for a small amount of work. It's a free source of great fertilizer. And best of all, it was our ticket home.

Talk chicken with Perdue.
