

Activity Day Is Held

Eenie, meenie, miney, mo... to which activity shall I go? Decisions, decisions, decisions!

During the waning days of school, with exams quickly approaching, an innovative idea from Mrs. Holly Hunnicutt, a D. F. Walker School teacher's aide, was put into effect. This idea provided the momentum to boost students' interest for the remaining few days of school and involved approximately thirty-six public spirited citizens from the community and schools.

Activity Day at Walker recently brought local authorities, and their various talents in hobbies, crafts and interests, inside the schools to be shared with 7th and 8th grade students. For three hours these gracious people were willing to share their expertise with students in an effort to perk up students' interest outside of school academic areas.

Conducting three, one-hour clinics each, the thirty-six demonstrators spurred enthusiasm in twenty-three interest areas as follows:

- Fishing - Cecil Fry;
- Photography - Eugene Roscoe; Make-up (White) Donna Hurdle and Jackie Smith; Make-up (Black) - Sara Pierre and Montrose Hinton; Disco Dancing - Jerry Gaster and Becky Copeland; Cooking - William Bembry; Needlepoint - Suzanne Palmer; Camping - Lyle Hunnicutt; Weaving - Frances Inglis; Tie-dying - Betty B. Dixon; Macrame - Vivian Clark; First Aid - Murray Ashley; Hair Design (Black) Brenda Little; Hair Design (White) Joan Rudd; Child Care - LeAnne Coker, Barbara Hager, Jane Underkofler and Donna Weeks; Summer Employment - Kathy Keefe; Tennis - Jimmy Byrum;

Theatre make-up improvisations and games - Marcie Ashton; European Travel - Novella Wilson; Chess - Steve Atstupenas; Square Dancing - Lynn Perry and Company of Colonial Squares; Plants - Loretta Guard; and Golf - Robert Woodley.

Each seventh and eighth grade student had the opportunity to choose three different interest areas in which to participate for one hour.

In organizing Activity Day, Mrs. Hunnicutt stated that she "tried to bring in community representatives who could talk or demonstrate on topics that would be beneficial as well as informative for students."

Reports from students, teachers and community resource confirmed that the special interest, Activity Day was quite successful. The community's willing response and students' enthusiasm at exposing and being exposed to hobbies, crafts and interest activities might just have lent the right amount of impetus to make Activity Day at D. F. Walker School an annual event.

Card Of Thanks

The family of Iris D. Bass would like to thank all the people in the Albemarle area that sponsored and supported the benefits on our behalf. Your thoughtfulness, concern, and prayers have made this difficult time easier for us and we thank you. May God bless each of you and your help will always be remembered.

Thank You
Leonard J. Bass and Family.

SKIN DEEP — Beauty is more than skin deep, but knowing what to do with what you've got proved to be a popular interest area for females at Walker's Activity Day. Mrs. Sara Pierre, cosmetic consultant for Mary Kay Products, uses Ivey Perry as her model for demonstrating proper skin care and make-up application.

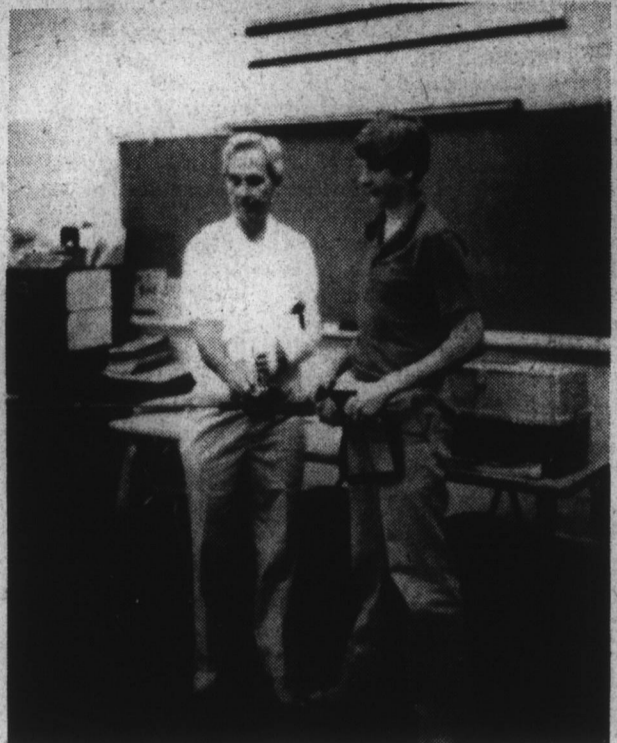

SAY, IT ISN'T SEW — It's needlepoint! Mrs. Suzanne Palmer gets a D. F. Walker student started on a needlepoint sample, after explaining various stitches and techniques used in the decorative art.

ART OF MACRAME — To wear it or hang it is the decision that students learning the art of Macrame will have to make. Mrs. Vivian Clark, D. F. Walker art teacher, and Brenda Williams get deeply engrossed in the complicated process of turning string into an object of pleasure.

YOU ARE WHAT YOU EAT — Ralph Cole, principal at D. F. Walker proves he has a healthy appetite, as he tries out the gourmet chicken dish prepared by William Bembry, chef and steward on an EXXON oil transporter.

FAVORITE PASTIME — Going fishing is a favorite pastime activity of School Board member Cecil Fry, who is pictured showing Scott Dirom different types of equipment, lures and finesse needed to catch that big one.

TWO LEFT FEET, BUT ON SO NEAT — Jerry Gaster's Disco Dancing Classes proved to be a most popular interest area for students who wanted to keep in the swing with today's music.

HOW IT WORKS...

Superheated air trapped in attic spaces can reach 150°. This hot air penetrates downward into living spaces. Your air conditioner strains to cool the house.

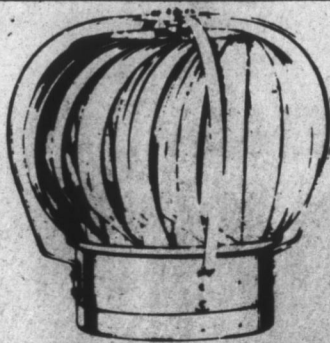

With a power attic ventilator, the temperature in the attic can be brought within 10° of the outside temperature. This allows your air conditioning system to effectively cool your house.
