Two new instructors have been employed to teach trades programs at College of The Albemarle. Norman Norfleet, dean of instruction, said Stanley E. Nixon and Vincent V. Lucente will head the machinist trades and electrical installation and maintenance programs.

Norfleet said Nixon is not new at COA. The Edenton native, who resides in Perquimans County, graduated as an advanced machinist in 1970. He later was employed at the college as an assistant instructor in the machinist trades program for a year.

In 1974, Nixon continued his education at Roanoke Bible College. He has served as pastor of Bethel Baptist Church for the past seven years. He also serves as a volunteer chaplain at Chowan Hospital in Edenton, and is assistant chief of the Bethel Volunteer Fire Department. Nixon has gained more than seven years' experience in the trade as a general machinist, tool and die maker, and utility mechanic for several area businesses.

Lucente, a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., has instructed electrical installation and maintenance students at Robeson Technical College in Lumberton for the past six years. While teaching, he also found time to enroll in and complete the radio, TV, and electronic servicing and air conditioning and refrigeration curricula at RTC.

He retired from the U. S. Marine Corps after 26 years of service. Lucente is a licensed electrical contractor and a member of the National Electrical Contractors Association and Electronic Dealers Association.

Biltmore House, the former Asheville residence of the late George Vanderbilt, will be featured on a national postage stamp to be issued August 28, according to U. S. Postal Service officials.

The Biltmore House is one of a four-stamp issue in an architectural series. Of the 180-million stamps issued in the series Biltmore House will appear on about 45-million of them.

The 18 cents stamp will be rectangular and measures 1 1/2 x 1 1/4 inches. It will be gray with red lettering.

Biltmore House, owned by the Biltmore Company, is the only privately-owned building that will be featured in the architectural series. The others will include the Palace of the Arts in San Francisco, the New York University Library in New York and the National Farmers Bank in Owatonna, Minnesota.

Postal officials said the stamp will be issued in Washington, D.C., on August 28 and will be available across the country on August 29.

The Biltmore House, built between 1890 and 1895, was designed by Richard Morris Hunt after three castles in the Loire Valley of France.

A poster which the Postal Service is using to promote the new stamp series features the Biltmore House.
