On The Arts

types available in smaller towns, as well as larger metropolitan areas.

The Governor's Business Council on the Arts and Humanities will be encouraging smaller and medium-sized businesses, in particular, to support cultural programs in their communities.

"As a businessman, I've had the opportunity to see first-hand how involvement with the arts and humanities benefits business, as well as the arts community," said J. Tylee Wilson, president, R. J. Reynolds Industries, Inc., who is serving a two-year term as chairman of the Council.

"A thriving cultural community pays rich dividends to businesses in several ways," Wilson explained. "It enhances cities and towns as places to live and work for our employees and their families. The arts also stimulate commerce within a community and they help preserve the human dimension in a complex world."

Church Calls
New Pastor

ELIZABETH CITY — The historic Corner Stone Missionary Baptist Church in Elizabeth City, has called Rev. John Ervin Trotman as the eighth pastor. He succeeds Dr. John Robert Rudolph McRay, the pastor for 58 years and who is now the pastor emeritus.

Mr. Trotman is the son of the late Rev. William Henry Trotman and Mrs. Alice Johnson Trotman, and is a native of Elizabeth City. He was reared and completed his elementary school education at the H. L. Trigg Elementary School, in Elizabeth City. He is a graduate of the P. W. Moore High School, Elizabeth City and he then matriculated at Virginia Union University, Richmond, Va. and was awarded the bachelor of arts degree in the field of History.

As a young man he recalls that he was torn between the ministry and medicine. However, he had an "inner compulsion" to become a minister and "a passion for people" which he still has. He then secured his formal theological training from the Virginia Union School of Religion, receiving a Bachelor of Divinity degree. He earned the Master of Divinity from the Richmond Theological Seminary. Being one of 17 ministers from North Carolina, Reverend Trotman was awarded a Ford Foundation Grant to study at the Urban Training Center for Christian Missions in Chicago for one year.
