Unusual Success Formula

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Everyone has a formula for success and Mary Allred has found hers. Just before a new book she has written is published she breaks a bone, and each of her books has proven successful.

When asked if she thought this was an omen to her success she replied, "Surely it doesn't have any connection. When I wrote 'The Move to a New House' I broke my wrist and when I wrote 'Grandmother Poppy and the Funny-Looking Bird' I broke my leg. Both times it happened in the backyard. My husband, Thurman has told me to stay out of the yard!

Mrs. Allred is literacy resource person for the Baptist Home Mission Board. Her husband was pastor of Rocky Hook Baptist Church for 10 years.)

The idea for her latest book "Grandmother Poppy and the Funny-Looking Bird" came about when her granddaughters Angela, age 11 and Alyson, age 9 asked her to write a book about birds when she was visiting them. They requested this since she had written one for her grandson, Todd about his moving ordeal. Again she has based her new book on a true account.

It is a story about Mrs. Allred's Grandmother Poppy and a red bird who isn't allowed to share the birdfeeder with the other birds because he doesn't have a crest on his head. The other birds reject him. Mrs. Allred tries to show children through her character Grandmother Poppy that we shouldn't reject others just because they look differently from us.
