Two-Paycheck Families

By Theresa T. Ford

Having two incomes is no guarantee against money problems. Although things cost more, the sum of money seems lofty, and the two-paycheck couples tend to feel they can get by alright. Studies indicate that the two-paycheck families spend more on everyday living items than do the single-paycheck families. Their expenditures tend to rise or even exceed their incomes because they buy more of what the family wants here and now. With the two pay-checks come the inducement to spend and go into debt for extras such as TVs, cars, furniture and appliances, convenience foods, restaurant meals, expensive vacations, and

Thank you so much for mentioning the current Membership Drive for the Edenton Chapter of the N.C. Symphony in your recent Public Parade. Since an interest has been expressed in our efforts, I'd like to make everyone more aware of exactly what we are doing.

By establishing an Edenton Chapter and electing an on-going board of directors, we have committed ourselves to making the N. C. Symphony a part of our community. In other words, while the monies we collect in the form of tax deductible contributions and membership sales in our current drive will be applied to our concert series on January 28, 1982, our efforts will not stop there. After our 1982 concerts, the board of directors will immediately begin to evaluate the response to them and make plans for 1983.

This year we will have a daytime concert for 1,000 school children in Chowan County and an evening concert for the public. Next year, the need may appear to be for any of a number of variations the symphony offers. The key is that there will be an experienced board of directors with new members being rotated on annually already organized to insure that our efforts don't produce a "one-shot deal".

Our emphasis for the daytime concert is on understanding the symphony while enjoying it, and local educators have already been involved in a workshop in Raleigh with that aim. We are most excited to be including a performance of the combined Edenton Choral Society and the John A. Holmes Concert Choir with the symphony: This will broaden the experience for the students and increase the pleasure for everyone!

There are tickets available for the evening performance, and everyone is invited to attend. As the free daytime concert will not accommodate high school students, they are encouraged to attend the evening performance. Membership forms have been delivered to many local civic organizations, and if these groups sell only 30 memberships each that's less than eight families of four! We'll have a full house!

Letters concerning the concerts are currently being mailed from Raleigh. Anyone with questions about the concerts or needing ticket information should call 482-2792 and we'll be glad to help.
