

Van Camp To Assume Executive Post

WINSTON-SALEM — R. J. Reynolds Industries, Inc. today announced that Robert W. Van Camp is joining the company as president and chief executive officer of R. J. Reynolds Development Corp., a new RJR subsidiary formed in January.

Robert W. Van Camp

Van Camp was formerly corporate vice president, new business development and a member of the operating committee of the Gillette Co., Boston. He will be responsible for overall management and direction of the RJR subsidiary, including management of RJR Archer, Inc., Service Systems Corp. and RJR Technical Co. He will report to J. Tylee Wilson, president, R. J. Reynolds Industries.

Van Camp was previously group vice president, North American operations of Gillette. He has also held executive positions with American Home Products Corp. as president of its Boyle Midway division and Colgate Palmolive Co. as marketing director of its household products division.

Van Camp received a B.S. degree from Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., and a master's in business administration from Cornell University.

In a January announcement of the formation of the new subsidiary, J. Paul Sticht, RJR chairman and chief executive officer, said, "The new company brings together existing RJR business units with identified development potential but which have a problem of fitting within the existing organizational structure. In addition, R. J. Reynolds Development Corp. will focus on identifying opportunities outside of our existing businesses that may be important to us in the next five to ten years." Sticht said the new subsidiary "will stand alongside our other operating companies -- R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company; R. J. Reynolds Tobacco International, Inc.; Del Monte Corporation; Sea-Land Industries Investments, Inc.; and Aminoil USA, Inc. -- in the corporate family."

RJR Archer specializes in packaging materials for consumer goods products. Service Systems manages cafeterias and restaurants for businesses and institutional customers such as industrial facilities, schools and hospitals and provides contract maintenance and security systems to clients. Avoca, formerly a division of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, is now a division of RJR Technical Company. Avoca provides flavorants to the tobacco company, produces spices and oils for sale to the worldwide flavor and fragrance industry and operates a 3,000-acre farm and processing operation in eastern North Carolina. "I have long felt that we needed a vehicle specifically to seek out both internal and external growth opportunities. I felt that this could best be addressed by forming a new business unit that will focus attention directly on this activity," Sticht said.

The new enterprise, Sticht said, "signifies a commitment by R. J. Reynolds Industries to invest in programs to expand our business and to develop the organizational flexibilities necessary to take advantage of growth opportunities during the 1980s."

R. J. Reynolds Industries, with headquarters in Winston-Salem, N.C., is the parent company of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.; Del Monte Corp. (canned and prepared frozen foods, beverages and fresh fruit); R. J. Reynolds Tobacco International, Inc.; Aminoil USA, Inc. (energy); Sea-Land Industries Investments, Inc. (containerized shipping); and R. J. Reynolds Development Corp.
