Penny Is Appointed

RALEIGH — N. C. Department of Transportation (NCDOT) Secretary W. R. (Bill) Roberson, Jr., has appointed James (Bill) M. Penny to serve as acting commissioner of the Division of Motor Vehicles (DMV). Prior to his appointment, Penny, a career state employee, was deputy commissioner for DMV.

The current commissioner, Elbert L. Peters, Jr., has resigned to accept a position with the N. C. Motor Carriers Association.

Sec. Roberson said, "We regret losing Eb and wish him well in his new position. We congratulate him on an outstanding record of public service and commend him for his many contributions while serving as Commissioner of DMV from 1977-81." "We are, however, fortunate that Bill has agreed to accept this additional responsibility. A very capable and dedicated career employee with outstanding administrative qualities, Bill will continue the tradition of providing the state with a high level of service," Secretary Roberson added.

Penny, 57 and a Wake County native, began his state government career in 1949 and worked in the Department of Revenue and State Employees' Credit Union before moving to DMV in 1957. In 1969 Penny was appointed Assistant Commissioner; in 1977, he was named Deputy Commissioner; Penny served as acting commissioner in 1973 and again in 1977.

Being active in professional and civic organizations, Penny currently serves as secretary of the International American Association of Motor Vehicles Administrators, and as Chairman of the Board of Directors of the State Employees' Credit Union.

He is a member of Multistate Reciprocity Commission, Hayes Barton Baptist Church, Amran Shrine Temple, and the State Employees' Association, holding various offices in the association.

Penny holds a B.S. degree from UNC-Chapel Hill and is a World War II veteran. He is married to the former Dot Richardson. They have two daughters.

Illegal Funds

GREENSBORO — Some churches in North Carolina have been offered large contributions from individuals who ask that most of the money be designated to their child's college scholarship or tuition, the Internal Revenue says.

Fred Nielsen, IRS district director in North Carolina, said, "We don't intend to discourage legitimate contributions to churches, but designating funds by an individual to a child's scholarship or tuition is what we consider an abusive tax shelter and is clearly not allowable."

The director said that college expenses are personal items and cannot be claimed on the tax return as a church contribution. Contributions to a church are allowable only if given to the church to be used for the religious program of that church, he added.

Nielsen remarked, "We will be assessing additional tax and penalties in those cases which we identify as in violation of tax statutes."
