

Detailed Listing Of N.C. State Agencies And Services Is Released

Council seeks answers — Are the '60s being revisited? What is the church's response to the social concerns of today and tomorrow? These and other questions will be examined at the N. C. Human Relations Council Annual Recognition Banquet and Workshop on November 13-14 in Raleigh. James E. Clyburn, president of the National Association of Human Rights Workers, will give the banquet address November 13. For details, call Betty Sanford, N. C. Human Relations Council, (919) 733-7996.

Sexual assault seminars — A series of regional one-day seminars will train professionals and volunteers who work with victims of sexual assault. The seminars, sponsored by seven organizations including the N. C. Council on the Status of Women and the Sexual Assault Task Force, both in the N. C. Department of Administration, are scheduled for Charlotte, Nov. 17; Morganton, Nov. 18; Burlington, Dec. 10; Greenville, Jan. 6; and Salem, Jan. 11. For specifics, contact Cynthia Dorman, Council on the Status of Women, (919) 733-2455.

Help with heating bills — County social services departments will be taking applications from November 1 through December 11 for this winter's Low-Income Energy Assistance Program. About 300,000 households across the state will be eligible for financial help with their heating bills. North Carolina's share of the $1.9-billion in federal funds authorized by Congress for this year's Low-Income Energy Assistance Program is $35.6 million. Congress has not yet appropriated any funds for the program. For more information about the Low-Income Energy Assistance Program, contact George Flemming at (919) 733-3276.

New law passed for child's safety — Effective July 1, 1982, motorists will be required to have all children, ages two and under, in a child restraint seat. This law was passed in the 1981 session of the General Assembly. For more information, contact Dr. B. J. Campbell at the Highway Safety Research Center in Chapel Hill at (919) 962-2202, or Floyd Bass with the Governor's Highway Safety Program in Raleigh at (919) 733-3083.

Department keeps highways beautiful — Through a clean-up litter program implemented twice a year since 1979, about 50,000 cubic yards or 12,500 truckloads of trash have been removed from some 30,000 miles of North Carolina highway by state transportation employees and volunteers. This fall a special effort to help with the clean-up program in the Raleigh area was spearheaded by women in the construction industry in Wake County. For more information, contact M. C. Adams manager of the N.C. Dept. of Transportation's maintenance and equipment unit, at (919) 733-5027.

Cap's fortieth — The N. C. Wing of the Civil Air Patrol will observe its 40th anniversary on December 1. Governor Jim Hunt has proclaimed the week of November 29-December 5 as Civil Air Patrol Week in the state, and the 50 squadrons of the wing will be holding observances to celebrate the event. For more information, call Lt. Michael Hooks at (704) 392-7520.

Holidays are almost here — And it's a good time to start thinking about planning holiday visits to state historic sites. Many have special open houses and other holiday events beginning early next month. Most feature outstanding traditional decorations. For full schedules of special Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday events, call the State Historic Sites in Raleigh, (919) 733-7862.

A week of culture — North Carolina is the only state that sets aside an entire week for meetings of statewide literary, historical and artistic societies. This year's

Culture Week runs Nov. 17-21 in Raleigh; most meetings and lectures are scheduled at the Holiday Inn downtown. The main speaker is former U. S.

Senator Sam Ervin, who will address the annual meeting of the Literary and Historical Association. For details, call Becky Myer in Raleigh, (919) 733-7305.

Turkey Prices Reasonable

"It's a tremendous...even fantastic...buy," according to Ed Woodhouse, executive director of the N. C. Poultry Federation. "TURKEY, that is!" Everyone should purchase two or more turkeys today—eat one now and put one or more in the freezer!!! The price right now is very attractive, Woodhouse noted, more than reasonable...and one of the best protein food buys of the year.

The Poultry Federation's Executive Director attributed the bargain prices to a banner crop of turkeys raised in North Carolina and the country during the year. Turkey industry men in the state are scheduled to produce 26 million gobblers in 1981. Local grocers and supermarkets should be well stocked with this holiday "super bargain."

North Carolina's turkey industry men had a record production year — gaining the first place slot in national production figures. Record production means fantastic protein meat bargains for consumers with prices through Thanksgiving and Christmas expected to average 20 cents per pound or more below last year's holiday turkey prices, Woodhouse explained. And there will be an abundance of this top quality protein in supermarket meat cases during the holiday season.

According to Dr. Charles Brooks with the North Carolina State University Department of Economics, it is very unusual to have a price drop this time of the year with turkey prices normally rising during the holiday season. "This price drop is due to the record supply", Brooks said.

Consumer demand for turkeys has been steadily increasing yearly with demand now greater year round than ever before. The popular taste, versatility and nutritional excellence of the product makes it a very desirable economical meal for the family table, so future prices of this very desirable economical meal for the family table, so future prices of this very competitive item are unpredictable. Now is the best time for thrifty housewives and other consumers to stock the freezer...while the supply is high and the price so reasonable.

Wassail Bowl December 6th

On December 6, from 2 P.M. until 7 P.M. the Cupola House Association will host their annual Wassail Bowl in conjunction with the James Iredell House Association's open house. Both houses will be decorated with traditional Christmas decorations done by the Garden of Eden and assisted by the Chowan Garden Clubs. The Edenton Choral Society will present a special program of Christmas music from 5 P.M.-5:30 P.M. at the James Iredell House and from 5:30 - 6 P.M. at the Cupola House.

Along with our houses being open and decorated for Christmas, Hope Plantation will be open from 1:30 - 6 P.M. and Somerset from 1 - 5 P.M. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Stroud Earns Sales Honor

GREENSBORO — S. E. Stroud, local sales representative of Southern Life Insurance Company, home office in Greensboro, has been named to the company's $2-Million Insurance in Force roster.

Stroud qualified for the honor as a result of the high level of quality sales and service provided to Southern Life policyowners in the Edenton and surrounding areas.
