Oborn sums up the happening: "As a newcomer to Edenton almost five years ago, I was most pleasantly surprised to find in a town this size an excellent choral group with which to sing."

"It has been my pleasure to practice with and to sing in several of the Edenton Choral Society concerts."

Now I would like to thank all the persons in the Edenton N.C. Symphony group, Shelby Strother, and any others who had made it possible for the Choral Society to sing with the Holmes High School Concert choir and the N.C. Symphony."

"This program has been one of the most rewarding and exciting experiences of my life."

Harrell noted that Commissioner J. D. Peele and Bunch pushed the project in 1976 while members of the Resource Conservation and Development Council in Northeastern North Carolina.

Copeland said the document has already been put to use during revaluation and the District Health Department uses it extensively.

Chairman C. A. Phillips said the commissioners appreciate the job SCS has done on the important study. "We are pleased to have been tied in with Perquimans County in this joint venture," the chairman added.

In other action, the commissioners adopted a resolution supporting a regional transportant plan, approved $500 for the Highway 17 Commission; approved signs for the courthouse and detention facility and approved paving the drive at the Edenton-Chowan Rescue Squad headquarters at Gliden.

The board also approved a new plan for membership of the Chowan County Nursing Home Advisory Council. While the council is limited by law to five members, the new plan provides for two ex-officio members. The council will be composed of Mrs. Pat Storie, chairman, Walter Abbe, Mrs. Mary Ann Barham, Miss Emily Nixon, and Mrs. Peggy Anne Vaughan. Ex-officio members are A. C. Griffin and Mrs. Vivian Jordan.

A resolution was adopted calling for action by the U.S. Department of Interior on stabilization of Oregon Inlet, and a resolution against a plan to increase the legal limit of rock fish.

Dallas Jethro, Jr., tax supervisor-collector, fielded questions about automobile vehicle listing. Several commissioners reported complaints about values of some vehicles.

Jethro said the county uses the National Automobile Dealers Association book. Average retail value is used with tables available for vehicles as old as 1963.

When it was pointed out that some new cars are being listed for more than they cost, Jethro responded matter-of-factly: "I couldn't care less about what an owner paid for the vehicle. I go by the book."

Jethro said he felt the county had a good listing period. At the same time, Copeland reported that tax collections remain stronger than last year.

Local governments were quick to respond to the closing and reduction in force announcement and Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr., approved the released $1.9-million from a Special Administration Fund to delay closing of 48 offices and the reduction of 400 announced layoffs to 230 from now until March 31.

President Reagan this week asked Congress to approve a health increase in funds to pay the unemployed as well as for job service salaries.

Chowan County wrote Glenn R. Jernigan, chairman, Employment Security Commission, that the local office renders valuable services to the community in the processing of unemployment claims and the placement of job seekers.

The county pointed out that a hardship would develop because of travel distances in excess of 100 miles (round trip) going to the Elizabeth City office.

The commissioners consider the ESC office so valuable that they have offered to accept responsibility for the provision of office space, utilities and local telephone service. Mrs. Bond said state officials Friday informed her that the commissioners' offer would be taken into consideration prior to the March 31 deadline.

Edenton Town Council also voted strong support for the local office, but stopped short of volunteering office space, etc. However, Town Administrator Sam Noble said Tuesday that he felt sure the council will consider any reasonable proposition to assit the agency.

ESC Chairman Jernigan said the commission members plan to communicate with communities offering assistance, and the commission will be formulating and defining the assistance

The Tar Heel Congressional delegation is continuing to be made aware of the impact which will result from mandated federal cuts and a resolution from the commission is being forwarded to them which requires their assistance through the restoration of the funds which have been cut. The efforts are being aided by local communities through contact with individual members of Congress.

"This is a positive action by the commission in conjunction with the governor's support to avoid losing essential services to our communities, employers, and the unemployed at a time when North Carolina needs these services most because of the declining economy," as ESC official stated in Raleigh.

Mrs. Bond announced that the Extended Benefits Program has "triggered on." The first claims for extended benefits were taken Monday, and will continue until extended benefits is no longer in effect.

Many unemployed individuals who have current claims with benefit years in progress and who have exhausted or will exhaust their regular entitlement to unemployment insurance may be eligible to receive up to 13 additional weeks of benefits at the same monetary rate of regular benefits. The extended benefits period will last 13 weeks and can be extended only if the unemployment rate maintains a level high enough to "trigger" in another period.

Funds to pay extended benefits are financed equally by the state and federal government; therefore, most employers are charged with 50 per cent of their proportionate share of benefits paid.

Employers and unemployed workers are encouraged to contact the ESC local office serving their area for more information about extended benefits.

Litter Guidelines Are Announced

Littering has become a continuing problem around trash dumpster sites and Chowan County commissioners are set to take drastic actions to clean up the matter.

County Manager Cliff Copeland reported Monday that $300 was spent last week for labor at two sites. "It has become costly," he told commissioners.

In a memo distributed with water bills this week. Copeland outlined the problem and said strict emforcement of the littering ordinance will be implemented.

"It was hoped that citizens would voluntarily keep the sites clean," the manager wrote. The ordinance to be enforced provides for a fine of $50 for any littering of the

The teams will be quizzed on information obtained from Encyclopedia Americana, World Almanac, Information Please Almanac, Newsweek,

This is the third annual statewide quiz bowl to be held in North Carolina; but this is the first year high schools in Pettigrew Region have participated. The quiz bowl competition was started and sponsored by public libraries in an effort to recognize and encourage the academic and scholarly students of our schools.

The team with the highest score from each county will participate in a Northeastern North Carolina Quiz Bowl to be held on March 20. That competition will involve twelve counties. The state wide competition will be held in Raleigh on April 24.

Debate Continues On Redistricting

Continued From Page 1 plans today (Thursday) in Raleigh. The 1:30 P.M. hearing will take place in the auditorium of the State Legislative Building.

The purpose of the hearing to to obtain the greatest amount of citizen comment on the 1981 Congressional plan and the proposed plans for the State Senate and State House districts. This is the time for the citizens to speak out on how the district lines should be drawn.

C. A. Phillips, chairman of Chowan County commissioners, was successful in getting resolutions passed questioning the State Senate and House plans. He said Sen. Daniels was objecting to the plan which would split Chowan and Perquimans from traditional representation with other Albemarle Area counties. The board's resolution calls for continued linkage with counties east of the Chowan River.

Commissioner Alton G. Elmore raised a question as to the longrange benefits from the plan. He said he didn't believe there would be any long lasting harm to Chowan County to go with counties west of the river.

Commissioner Barbara Ward said it would be logical to keep all the counties in the Albemarle Area together. However, she tended to agree with Elmore but there were no decending votes to the resolution.

Chairman Phillips presented a request from Chairman Mayme Davenport of Washington County to keep from splitting the county into two different House districts. Commissioners agreed as a courtesy to the Washington board they would ask that the entire county remain in the First House Dis-
