WORK STUDIED — Soil Conservation Service District Conservationist Tony Short, and Pollock Swamp Drainage Commissioners Wallace Goodwin, Jr. and Larry Smith, look at one of the bridge crossings over the main channel that needs repair.

Inspection Is Conducted

The Pollock Swamp Drainage Commissioners, joined by local Soil Conservation Service personnel, recently made their annual maintenance inspection on the Pollock Swamp Watershed Drainage Project.

The commissioner's task of trying to determine where work is needed the most is not an easy job, especially since there is a very limited amount of money available for maintenance work.

Deciding what ditches or channels need recleaning by using a dragline, or locating those areas that need mowing the most, or visibly inspecting how many bridges and pipes might need repairing, are some of the most current shores the Commissioners are faced with.

The Pollock Swamp Watershed, a PL 566 Drainage Project, was completed in 1966 with federal assistance from the Soil Conservation Service. It has a drainage area of 15,000 acres with 28 miles of open channels where maintenance is a continuing process.

New Supermarkets Acquired

Food Town Stores, Inc. has acquired five supermarkets in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia. Announcement of the acquisition came from Tom E. Smith, president of the Salisbury, N.C.-based food chain. Food Town has been noted as the "fastest growing food chain in America" by Forbes' magazine. Company sales for the first four weeks of 1982 were $63,579,738, an increase of 35 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago.

The newly-acquired stores are located in Concord, N.C., Barnwell, Columbia and Sumter, South Carolina, and Danville, Virginia. The stores in South Carolina and Virginia were formerly Big Star supermarkets and the Concord supermarket had been a Food Center facility. This brings to a total of 148 the number of supermarkets operated by Food Town.

In 1971 Food Town had 15
