Dear B ANNE

Dear B. Anne, I am 15 years old. My boyfriend is 17 years old. We have been dating for 2 months (on Feb. 20 to be exact). I love him very much and he loves me too. I know I want to be with him forever. What bothers me are some of the things he and his friends do. I don't really enjoy being with his friends. My parents would kill me if they knew what my boyfriend and friends did and I was around. What do I do? I love him so much! I can't imagine being without him.

doesn't understand and refuses to change, you have to remember he's only 17. If you have a difference this strong between you, he may not be the boy for you. Even though you love someone with all your heart, sometimes it's not enough. Many, many things have to be considered before a lifetime relationship is committed. Think carefully. You have a lifetime to make a decision as big as this one.

Dear No Name,

It is somewhat hard to answer your letter since I do not know exactly what these friends do. I assume its something you are totally against. If you haven't already, tell your boyfriend how you feel. Make sure he knows how strongly you are against his actions. If he

Little Theatre Auditions Are Planned

Edenton Little Theatre announces audition for the mystery - comedy "A Shot in the Dark" to be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 23 and 24, at 7:30 P.M. in the old Chowan County Court House. This amusing and confusing play concerns a murder that is caused by a shot in the dark. The Chauffeur is dead, the parlor maid is the prime suspect, and the new magistrate must figure out whodunit. Needed for the cast are five men and three women between the ages of 20 and 50 (two of the parts may be either male or female). Anyone interested in a crew position -- stage manager, assistant director, lighting, props, set, costumes, make-up, ushers, tickets -- should come to auditions or contact Penny

Jones, 482-2230. The projected production dates are May 20 and 21, and 27 and 28. Rehearsals will begin twice per week through March and April. Make plans now to audition for "A Shot in the Dark."

Why Bite On The Ribbon?

Did you ever wonder why your dentist asks you to bite on a thin piece of ribbon? Actually it is a very fine strip of paper, or film coated with special marking material. What he is doing is checking your bite. He's looking for any high spots on the surface of your teeth which meet prematurely when the uppers and lowers come into contact.

He'll check your bite from several different directions and from the information he finds from the markings on the ribbon, he'll know just how your bite works and whether it needs any bite correction. It may even indicate that certain teeth need building up to meet their opposing partners. He can also take study models so that he has a permanent hard plaster model of your teeth. From this simple test, he can then adjust your bite so that you have a comfortable fit and, as a bonus, save you the possibility of more serious problems in the future. When your friend the dentist says, "bite down", he's doing you and your mouth a favor. Have you thanked him lately?

Glaucoma's Warning Signs

Any unusually pressure in the eyes may be a sign of glaucoma. Only early diagnosis and treatment can prevent loss of vision. Glaucoma is an abnormal eye condition in which the watery fluid that flows through the eye fails to drain as it should. Pressure builds up on the optic nerve. If the pressure continues without relief, the optic nerve will be damaged and so will your ability to see well.

In its early stages, glaucoma can be controlled with medication to keep the pressure down. If that doesn't do the job, surgery can be performed to provide another outlet for the fluid. But glaucoma is an insidious disease. It can sneak up on you without your knowing it and cause serious eye damage before it's discovered. That's another reason why it's so important to have your eyes checked regularly. Your eye doctor is trained to look for signs of any disease as well as structural errors of the eye that cause vision problems. No one should take chances with his eye -- especially when early detection of a disease can make a vital difference in saving it.
