Social Security News

By Lee E. Wallie

Young people planning to work this summer for the first time need to take one step now to get a job; they need to apply for a Social Security number if they don't already have one.

It takes time to get a Social Security number, and it may take a lot longer to land a job in today's tight market. Many employers will not hire a person without a Social Security number.

So a person who delays applying may be seriously handicapped in the job market.

Tighter security, both in applications for the Social Security number and in its use for employment, has developed in recent years.

Employers usually insist that a card be shown rather than a Social Security number be given from memory.

Thus, they avoid the risk of a wrong number and the resulting paperwork and inconvenience that may result.

The Social Security number is the key to the earnings records maintained on a worker at the Social Security Ad-

People who need a duplicate Social Security card to replace a lost one or to show a new name must also provide evidence of identity.

If you have any questions about what you need to do to get a Social Security number, call the Elizabeth City Social Security office at 338-2161.

Eligibility for and amount of retirement, survivors, and disability benefits are based on the earnings credited to a person's Social Security record.

A wrong number could seriously affect the accuracy of these records.

People must provide documentary evidence of age, identity, and citizenship to get a Social Security number for the first time.

People age 18 or over must apply for the number in person.

The best proof of age and citizenship is a birth certificate or church record that shows the date and place of birth.
