Carolina Telephone

ELIZABETH CITY — Most people look forward to holidays, and Carolina Telephone customers have even more to look forward to on five designated holidays each year. That is when special long distance rates are available.

Since July 4th is one of the designated holidays, customers will be able to make long distance calls at the evening rate all day. The evening rate for calls placed within North Carolina is 25 per cent off the full rate, while the evening rate for calls placed outside the state is at a 35 per cent discount.

"If the calls are made at night after 11 P.M. or if the holiday falls on a weekend, the rates are even lower," said Daniels, district commercial and marketing manager. "People should dial calls themselves when possible, because reduced rates apply for the total time of the call. Reduced rates for operator - assisted calls apply only after the first three minutes."

Daniels said the other designated holidays when special long distance discounts rates apply include Christmas, New Year's Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving. The Carolina Telephone spokesman reminded customers that other reduced long distance rate periods are available and that an explanation can be found in call guide 6 in each Carolina Telephone directory.

"The Healthy Approach To Slimming"

Overeating is the major cause of overweight, but physical inactivity contributes greatly to the problem.

The American Medical Association's popular pamphlet, "The Healthy Approach To Slimming," paints a word picture of an overweight, sedentary young woman who has discovered that she will remain overweight on a diet of only 1,800 calories.

If she has an extra 125 calories (one doughnut) every day, she will gain 13 pounds in a year!

A major part of her problem is low energy expenditure. To actually lose weight and keep it off, more exercise is essential, not only to lose pounds, but also for improved vitality and physical fitness.

There is a growing awareness that a sedentary way of life can contribute to degenerative disease of the arteries and to obesity and its potential complications, most notably diabetes. There is a growing preference for a healthy - physically fit appearance. Emphasis is on condition. Body, skin and hair that are in good condition are widely regarded as necessary for good looks.

"Moonlighting"

Income earned while "moonlighting" is taxable and must be reported on the Federal income tax return, whether received in a regular payroll check, or in cash. Many Americans find it necessary to work at more than one job, or "moonlight," to supplement their incomes.

Some examples of "moonlighting" include: a school teacher picking up extra money tutoring students during evenings or weekends; an off-duty policeman doubling as a cab driver; a newspaper reporter writing free-lance articles for magazines; a secretary selling cosmetics door-to-door on weekends; or an accountant preparing tax returns during spare time.

If a second employer does not furnish a W-2 form "Wage and Tax Statement," to the employee, or if the earnings have been in cash, the income must still be reported as "Wages, salaries, tips, etc." on line 7 of the 1040 Form or on line 7 of the 1040A Form, the IRS says.

Taxpayers receiving income from a second job and itemizing deductions on the 1040 Form may take a Miscellaneous Deduction to claim certain deductible business expenses incurred in producing the income or use Schedule C if self-employed.

Taxpayers who need further information on taxable income can order the free IRS Publication 525, "Taxable or Nontaxable Income," by calling the IRS toll-free, 1-800-241-3860.

Tied Down?

House payments ... groceries ... utilities ... mother-in-law problems ... kids ... job demands ... broken down car ... all these and more got you tied down and out?

It's not the big things in life that do us in ... it's the million minutia of daily living.

One day, like Gulliver, we wake to discover that life has us all in a knot! We have become slaves! Like to break free? Habits, sins, have made us lose our freedom!

But there is only one way to freedom! The Bible says, "Whom the Son sets free is free indeed!"

This is where we can help you! That's what we are all about ... freedom! New life!
