American Legion Membership Drive Proves Successful

Wow! What a day we of the American Legion had at our membership kickoff. For those of you who might have missed this event, you missed one of the biggest events in Post 40's history.

We had plenty of BBQ with all the trimmings. We also had plenty of good fellowship. There were several prospective new members plus a large number of present members. We held games for all of the kids regardless of age.

Don't forget the Fair September 20-25. All exhibits must be entered on Saturday, September 18 or Sunday, September 19. The judging will take place on Monday, September 20.

The American Legion's next regular meeting is Tuesday, September 7. We

Extended-Wear Lenses

Our modern life-style is often hectic and fast-paced. Frequently, we don't have time for the things we MUST do, much less those things we WANT to do. Contact lenses which require daily insertion and removal also require daily care. "Extended wear" contacts, on the other hand, are designed to be worn continuously for up to two weeks—depending on the individual and his or her prescribed schedule.

There are also many more people today who are traveling, camping, and spending their leisure time in ways which make daily care of conventional contacts particularly impractical. Extended-wear contacts may be the answer for them. But it is important to stress that not all soft contact lenses can be used in this way. Only a soft contact which has met the criteria of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration can be worn for prolonged periods. Also, prescribing these contacts depends on such factors as the health of your eyes, your tear chemistry, and the way you work and relax.

COA Joins Anti-Illiteracy Campaign

Because adult illiteracy is a pressing concern in North Carolina, next month College of The Albemarle will join other community colleges and technical institutes across the state in a public television campaign designed to help alleviate the problem.

Beginning on Sept. 6, a three-tiered program series will be inaugurated to provide instruction on three different educational levels. Douglas Sawyer, assistant director of Continuing Education at COA, explained that the programs will provide Adult Basic Education (ABE) lessons in elementary school level reading, mathematics, and other subjects; pre-General Education Development (Pre-GED) testing courses at the junior high school level; and GED preparatory instruction for the high school equivalency examination.

The multi-year project was formulated to combat illiteracy and to prepare adults for high school equivalency examinations. It is sponsored jointly by the UNC Center for Public Television and the N. C. Department of Community Colleges (DCC).

"This is the first instance we know of that a state has used all three programs at one time," Sawyer said. "The project is not looked upon as a cure-all for our adult illiteracy problems, but should be successful in involving more adults with basic learning opportunities because of its accessibility through the medium of television."

Approximately 12,000 adults in the COA seven-county service area have less than an eighth grade education, according to the director. Statewide, there are nearly two million North Carolinians without a high school diploma.

The DCC has provided basic education services for years, but has been able to reach only 36,000 adults annually, according to Paul Vandergrift, director of Educational Services at the public television center. He says he believes the efforts have been hampered by a 'distribution deficiency.'

"Although most of the programs' potential students live within 30 miles of a learning center," he explains, "many have neither the time nor the means of transportation necessary to attend classes." He pointed out that most, however, do have access to television sets.

The courses will be broadcast in this area over WUND, Channel 2, at 8 A.M. weekdays. They will be re-run afternoons at 3:30 P.M., and at 7 A.M. on Saturdays. "The actual 'classroom' can be a living room, kitchen, or any place students and their TV sets get together," Vandergrift said.

Sawyer said adult ABE or GED preparatory students will need to visit COA only for the initial enrollment, to discuss any subsequent problems they may encounter during the series, and to take the required tests to complete their work. He said there is no charge for enrolling, but students will be asked to purchase a book to use with their program. Prices range from $11.25 to $13.25, depending upon the level of study.

Tickets On Sale

Reserved seat tickets are now on sale at the John A. Holmes High School office. The price remains $15.00 per ticket and last year's ticket holders will have first choice on the seats they held last year.

General admission tickets are also available this year. A book of tickets will cost only $12.50 and will allow

More Than One Treatment Plan

It's truth time. Your teeth have been x-rayed and examined. Now your dentist explains in detail what, if any problems exist and how he intends to proceed. It is called the treatment plan. There are usually several ways to reach the desired results, therefore many dentists will prepare two or more treatment plans. Dental needs and financial resources can vary from patient to patient. The patient will then decide which plan he desires.

For example, a few missing teeth can be replaced with either a fixed bridge or a removable partial denture. The fixed bridge, due to the time involved and laboratory expense, will cost more, however, it does have the advantage of being fixed in place. Many individuals can't afford a fixed bridge so they may opt for the less expensive alternative plan of a removable partial denture.

Within reason, the patient should know exactly what is going to be done, how long it will take, the cost, the alternatives, and the chances of further treatment of the future.
