Fishermen Face Problems

GREENSBORO—Listed high among North Carolina's diversified industry is commercial fishing, which resulted in about $60-million in seafood being valued at dockside in 1981.

Many problems face the estimated 2,500 registered, full-time Tar Heel fishermen. Not the least of these problems is the special tax problems peculiar to the fishing profession, the Internal Revenue Service says.

For instance, the IRS says, many fishermen do not know how to claim the
