

Edenton Ladies Attend Homemakers Conference

Hilda Goodwin, Elizabeth Ann Parrish and Mary Julia Parrish of Chowan County were among over 2,000

Rights, Responsibilities, Resources" with activities geared for the entire family on the campus of the Ohio

ACWW. Mrs. Westebriug has been an officer or delegate to the ACWW conferences since 1968.

Fun Shops which included "Tricks with the Needle," "Jazzercise," and "Meet Your Ancestors." Learning sessions dealt with topics such as "Growing and Changing Together," Sewing for the $500 Look," "Decorating with Style," "Estate Planning," and "Is There A Computer in Your Life."

Varied activities and entertainment were planned, including trips to the Ohio State Fair, The Ohio State Capitol, and the Center of Science and Industry. The Ohio Youth Choir, composed of 300 youth from across the state, presented an outstanding and inspiring choral concert for the group.

On Wednesday night the delegates participated in a Beef Barbecue. However, Chowan County Council President Mary Julia Parrish reports that it can't touch a Chowan County Pig Pickin'.

Hilda Goodwin represented the 17 - county Northeastern District as delegate at large. Mary Julia Parrish, vice chairman of the NCEHA Family Resource Management Committee, received the 1st place Family Resource Management Award for the state of North Carolina. Elizabeth Ann Parrish, attending her first National EHA meeting said, "I enjoyed the meeting and sharing ideas with Extension Homemakers from various parts of North Carolina and other states."

Fifty - two homemakers from North Carolina attended the meeting, accompanied by Mrs. Ada Dalla Pozza, state agent for home economics, and Dr. Martha Johnson, assistant director, home economics, for the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service.

Pre and post convention tours included: Gettysburg Battlefield and Museum; Museum of American Life and Chocolate World at Hershey, Pennsylvania; Fostoria Glass Company and Blenko Glass Company in West Virginia.

The North Carolina delegation had a special dinner at the Homestead Hotel in Hot Springs, Virginia.

Fire Report

Fire Chief Perry of the Edenton Fire Department reported that there were three fires in Edenton over the past week. The first fire was a residential fire and the other two were both industrial fires at the same location.

The residential fire took place on Aug. 22 at 8:08 A.M. and was located at 311 West Church St. The owner of the property was Mrs. Hattie Johnston. The fire took place when the switch box on the hot water heater over heated and shorted out. The fire was contained to the hot water heater's switch box. Estimated damage is less than $100.

The two industrial fires took place at Jimbo Jumbo's plant on Peanut Drive. The first fire at this location took place at 7:56 A.M. on Aug. 25. This fire was caused when one on the drying motors malfunctioned and ignited a canvas mat which directs the heat from the drying motor into the peanut trailers. Estimated damage of this fire was $250.

The second fire which took place at Jimbo Jumbos happened on Aug. 27 around 12:51 P.M. It was caused when trash from the peanuts apparently got into the roasting machine; at which time the roaster caught fire along with the peanuts that were in the roaster. The roaster suffered minor damage and was back in operation within two hours. There was around $600 worth of damage caused by this fire and most of that was due to the lost of the peanuts in the roaster.

Misconceptions About The Internal Revenue

Over the years, many taxpayers have come to believe as fact some misconceptions about the Internal Revenue Service, possibly because the IRS is a large agency and the tax law is complex. Unfortunately, these myths and misconceptions cause needless worry. Here are some of the more common rumors, followed by the actual truth:

1. Once you're audited, you are always on the audit list. The IRS makes a special effort NOT to audit the same people again and again. If your previous audit resulted in a no change, you should not be audited two years in a row, if the same issues are prevalent.

2. A mistake on a return triggers an audit. Generally, math errors are corrected automatically by the computer and do not generate an examination. Anyone can make an honest mistake and most can be corrected with little trouble.

3. Anyone whose return is examined will end up owing more tax. No, actually almost 30 per cent of all examinations result either in a "no change" or an additional refund. That leaves more than 70 per cent that do result in additional tax. In any case, the purpose of an examination is to determine the correct tax.

4. Filing a return early means it will be examined. No. The time of year a return is filed does not determine if an examination will be made. This is true of a return filed on or about the filing deadline. Whether a return will be examined is mostly determined by a computer program.
