

Around The County Farms

By Mike Williams

The recent rains have caused a great deal of difficulty in proceeding with this year's peanut harvest. Many peanut fields had already been dug when the first rain came last week. Most of the peanuts were not fully mature but needed digging because of the high level of disease this year. Harvest was just about to crank up again when Sunday's rain came. Since soils were dry before the rain and the forecast is for continued dry weather it should not be too long before we can get started again.

The wet weather will not affect all peanut fields the same way. Those not dug with vines in good shape and not over mature should hold up pretty well. Fields with disease and leaf loss or over mature will begin losing pods rapidly. Peanuts dug and exposed to one rain should not be hurt at all but those exposed to both rains may lose some pods due to peg deterioration. A lifter should be used in either case to help dry out vines so that picking can proceed as soon as possible.

Maturity tests have indicated that N.C. 7 peanuts planted the first week of May are mature. Florigiant peanuts planted at this time should reach optimum maturity later this week.

Plans are now being made for the Chowan County Livestock Show to be held in April 1983. Calves need to be

To The Editor: "By Preparing For War, We Are Going To Get War"

Dear Editor:

Before the atomic bomb, governments who went to war only committed mass homicide, but now in the nuclear age, they will be committing suicide. I wonder if that will make any difference to them?

Last week our tax dollars were used to finance a medical charade in Tidewater - part of the Pentagon's plan to prepare U.S. hospitals for war! Called the Civilian - Military Hospital Contingency Plan, it speaks of a need for at least 50,000 civilian beds to handle "casualties produced at a higher and faster rate (in Europe) than any other war in history" (thought by some people to mean "tactical" nuclear war in Europe, which the Pentagon then denied).

In Tidewater, 400 soldiers were transported by air, pretending to be wounded, to several area hospitals, to be "treated" and then fed lunch and released. I wonder how much money all that cost, and what benefit anyone will get out of it other than a free airlift, lunch, and bandages at taxpayers' expense?

The point is that by preparing for war, we are going to get war, and it is going to be total nuclear war by miscalculation, in great likelihood. And there will not be a blessed thing that any hospital (standing or levelled) can do for any living or dying creature on God's earth. So why the charade? We're only kidding ourselves, and leading ourselves unthinking toward nuclear death. I used to think people were smarter than that, but now I'm not sure.

If you don't agree with this kind of deceptive thinking and waste of you tax dollars, then write or call your representatives, the President, and the Pentagon now. They just haven't heard very much yet about what ordinary American citizens think of all this waste.

Sincerely,
Candace N. Corson, M.D.
