Brody Medical Bldg. Is Dedicated

GREENVILLE—More than 1,500 people from Eastern North Carolina gathered at the East Carolina University School of Medicine October 29 for the dedication of the school's new $26-million home, the Brody Medical Sciences Building.

The facility represents "something that many committed people have worked long and hard for," said Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr., keynote speaker for the 4 P.M. ceremony.

"We can all be proud of this beautiful medical complex for it is truly the lifeblood of Eastern North Carolina," said Hunt, referring to the medical school's partnership with Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

"The Brody Medical Sciences Building is proof of how much can be accomplished when people of vision believe in a mission of mercy and work hard to make it a reality," said Hunt.

Hunt said many of the state's future doctors will be educated and trained in the building and will deliver critically needed health care across the state. He also noted that the medical center is staffed with some of the top specialists in this part of the country.

"The training and care going on here is providing us in medical professionals who are well trained in meeting all the needs of North Carolina's families, from the very youngest to the very oldest," Hunt said.

The Brody Building is located on a 40 acre site adjacent to Pitt Memorial Hospital. It is the first permanent home for the school since the four-year program was established in 1975.

The 451,000-square-foot building houses the basic and clinical sciences departments, teaching areas, auditorium, administrative offices and outpatient center. It was named in honor of the Brody family of Kinston and Greenville in 1979 to recognize the family's support of the developing medical school.

ECU Chancellor Emeritus Leo W. Jenkins, who received a standing ovation when Hunt referred to him as the real leader in the creation of the school, said the Brody Building is "a symbol of great progress for all of the people of Eastern North Carolina and across the state whose health care needs are now being met."

ECU Vice Chancellor and Medical School Dean William E. Laupus noted during the program that the school remains dedicated to the original goals of providing family practitioners and other primary care physicians to rural communities, developing a regional health care system and providing medical education for qualified minority and disadvantaged students.

Also addressing the crowd prior to the ribbon cutting, which was performed with surgical scissors, were ECU Chancellor John M. Howell, ECU Board of Trustees Chairman Ashley B. Futrell, Pitt Memorial Board Chairman G. Henry Leslie, UNC Board of Governors member David J. Whichard and benefactor Leo Brody.

Area Boat Dealers' Annual Fall Meeting And Fishing Tournament Was Held

HATTERAS—Rough weather did nothing to hamper the spirits of Albemarle area boat dealers who gathered here recently for their annual fall meeting and fishing tournament.

The two-day event was highlighted by the presentation of the "Top Dealer" award to 70 West Marina of Morehead City for selling the most boats of any area dealer during the past year, and the display of five new boat models by Albemarle Boats of Edenton.

Guests were well fed on both nights of the meeting. A pig picking was prepared and served by friends and relatives of Albemarle Boats president Scott Harrell, and members of the Hatteras Methodist Church, under the direction of Alice Gray, served a seafood dinner to the boat dealers. The Duane Quidley combo of Wilson entertained both nights.

Headquarters for the meeting was the Hatteras Civic Center.
