Prospective Teacher Scholarship Loans Available

High school seniors in Chowan County need not rule out colleges in the fall if money is the only problem. Students with a good academic record who plan to teach in a specific course shortage area may apply for a scholarship loan from the State Department of Public Instruction's Prospective Teacher Scholarship Loan Fund.

The teaching shortage areas include math, physics, chemistry, agriculture, exceptional children, and vocational education.

Awards for the program are in the amount of $1500 per academic year and are limited to undergraduate study. A recipient may participate in the program a maximum of four years.

Last year, the department awarded 135 new scholarship loans for the current school year. Since 1957, about 11,578 high school seniors and other undergraduate students interested in entering the public schools as certified teachers have received financial assistance.

A recipient has seven years to repay the loan through teaching in the public schools or a federal school located in North Carolina. One year of the loan is repaid for each year taught. If a recipient does not repay the loan by teaching he/she must repay the principal of the loan plus interest. Because of the shortage of teaching jobs and other factors, prospective teachers have been given an extension on the time allotted to repay a loan.

Application forms are available from the Division of Personnel Relations, State Department of Public Instruction, Education Building, Raleigh, NC 27611. Applications should be received before March 1 for priority consideration. Awards will be announced in early May.

Letter To The Herald Editor

Dear Editor:

With such a renewed interest in "roots" during recent years and because many citizens now living in the area served by your newspaper had ancestors who lived in Georgia during the past 250 years, we want to call to the attention of your readers the current availability of the landmark and highly-acclaimed 7-volume set of books by Folks Huxford entitled "Pioneers of Wiregrass Georgia". The set contains sketches of some 3,000 Georgia pioneers dating from the founding of Georgia in 1733 up to the turn of the 20th century. Also available is a set of monaural but excellent sound cassette recordings of a series of genealogical "how-to-do-it" workshops presented in 1971 by Judge Huxford, whose life-long hobby was genealogy and who was the only Fellow of the American Genealogical Society south of the Mason-Dixon Line until his death last year at age 87. For further information, those interested may contact the Huxford Genealogical Society, a non-profit organization; the society's address is Box 595, Homerville, Georgia 31634.

Sincerely yours,
Huxford Genealogical Society, Inc.
