Help Fight Inflation With Home Gardening

By Jean Winslow
Our economy being what it is, home gardening has become serious business. That's what my list's all about, Santy—practical products that will implement my request for a brighter horticultural tomorrow.

My library is obsolete. The only thing it has in it is books. How archaic. I need the Atari Home Computer ($399) for graphing spinach and projecting tomato crops.

No cutesy little gardening clothes, like Bloomy's long underwear with hearts all over it ($25). Bring me some basics. L.L. Bean's insulated cold weather boots ($84 includes extra liner) can guard my tootsies against frozen grounds. Abercrombie and Fitch can supply a nonsense lined wine loden jacket for $145. Bet that'll keep the wind out!

You know that cord on my Sony Walkman? It gets in my way. Bring me a nice box radio ($269) that can fit snugly into the corner of my ($175) Garden Way cart.

I'm home growing Christmas presents in the greenhouse, amaryllis to be exact ($5 per bulb). I've one left over just for me, so bring along one Willoughby-Taylor porcelain cache-pot in carp design for display purposes. That's right, it is $160 but look, you get a separate saucer and a drain hole.

The Lord and Burnham Greenhouse ($4,700) is holding up well, by the way, with one exception. Can you imagine the bloom to my family, lettuce-wise, if I could grow it this year under Light Machines' "Supernova" ($199.50)? It's powerful metal halite grolites equal 12 eight-foot fluorescent fixtures, guaranteed to give plants a blast of BODACIOUS (their word, not mine) growth.

No need to replace that Caddy ($16,500) from last year. This is the new me, remember? I'm driving my tools and supplies around in a 20-year old Toyota four wheel drive that's making my status-conscious friends absolutely seethe with envy. It needs tidying up, though, with Eddie Bauer's deluxe shearling seat covers ($149 each).

So practical—they can be handwashed, you know. Oh what a joy, whipping down the secondaries drinking good, strong coffee (Columbian $5.49 lb.) from a sturdy no-spill mug ($10.95) listening to Bob Thompson's Victory Garden tapes on the Pioneer Supertuner ($299.95) car stereo you're going to bring me. (I recorded those tapes from T.V. Plagiarize? Why, Bob Thompson would be tickled to death to know I respect his opinion that much.) My really big horticultural project this season was strawberries (Fraise-des-bois, 12 for $25). Next year should really be productive, so bring me an Il Galataio ice cream maker ($375) for fabulous desserts. Those little Haagen-Day cups and saucers (four for $35) will be perfect. Bring a dozen.

There now, haven't I looked after my family? So I personally want a little fun thing. I want a Teddy Bear. Don't laugh. We all need something to hug and my 6'1" "baby" has gone off to prep school.

Abercrombie has three-foot acrylic-fur grizzly ($225) that any sensitive person would adore.....

Hold that grizzly, Nicholy. I found a better deal!
Accomplished by its very own certificate of pedigree, Garfinkel's offering "Rare Bear". He's real mink and only $175. Of course, he's only nine inches high, but that means I can pack him in my Gu chi tote ($225) and never feel lonely when I'm away from home. In Tahiti. Peptide. On the QE-2. Make that a January cruise, 'cause I need to get home to put in a spring garden. Lettuce always costs a fortune that time of year, you know.

Some experts estimate that the first dogs were tamed over 12,000 years ago.

EPH Classes To Be Held

What would you do if you were the first person to arrive at the scene of a serious accident? How would you react to assist the victims?

These questions undoubtedly have passed through everyone's mind at one time or another. Beginning on January 3, 1983, College of The Albemarle will provide the answers through a special course offered by the college continuing education division.

"First Responders," a 42-hour course instructed by Pasquotank-Camden Ambulance Service director

Engagement

Mr. & Mrs. Clyde Stanley, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rena Marie Potts to Joseph Lee Leary.

Miss Potts graduated from East Gaston High School and attended Mars Hill College. She studied piano and is a member of Delta Omicron Music Fraternity.

She was Miss M.T. Holly, 1978.

She is employed by Wolverine World Wide as sales representative in Tennessee.

Mr. Leary is the son of Myrtle W. Leary, and the late Curtis T. Leary Sr., of Edenton. He graduated from John A. Holmes High School, and attended Elon College on a football scholarship. He is employed with Namoleo Inc. as district manager in Tennessee.

May 1st. is the date for a garden wedding at the bride's parents home.

Recipe

By Edna Wolverton
This recipe may be adapted to pork, and is equally as good prepared either way. Serve over rice.

Sweet and Sour Chicken
3 chicken breasts—boned and cut into chunks

Batter:
2 eggs
3/4 c flour (self rising)
2 T water
1/2 t salt

Dip chicken in batter and deep fry in oil. Drain. Place in warm oven.

Sauce:
1/2 c vinegar
2 c drained chunk pineapple
1/4 t Accent
3 T catsup
3/4 t salt

1 1/2 green pepper cut into strips
1 c water
1 c sugar
3 T cornstarch
2 T oil
Dash pepper

Mix well. Bring to a boil. Stir until thickened. At serving time combine with crispy fried chicken bits. Serve over rice.

In 1799 the North Carolina Medical Society held its first meeting in Raleigh. This group continued to meet until 1804.

Soft Contacts And Better Sports
It's wonderful to see so many people out there exercising and improving their health, especially those who have been inactive for years. Naturally, it's important for them to have a physical check-up before embarking on any rigorous program of exercise.

They must also consider which sport is right for them, according to their physical condition and life-style. And they should consider which equipment—footwear, clothing, etc.—will maximize their performance while minimizing the stress and chance of injury.

In the same way, someone resuming sports after an absence or taking it up for the first time, should consider switching to soft contact lenses. Eyeglasses can slip down, fog up, or fail to provide peripheral vision. Unlike hard contact lenses, soft lenses are so pliable that they're usually comfortable right from the start. And there's no worry over lenses popping out—even during the most rugged activities.

Whether you're taking up a new game or picking up an old one, you should decide which are the right lenses for you.

A Christmas Prayer
Last year...
I filled my rooms with candle glow,
Hung holly wreaths and mistletoe,
And, in the magic warmth of them,
Forgot the Child of Bethlehem.
With tinsel shine I trimmed a tree
But held aloof the heart of me—
For it is there that Christ must stay
When He comes in on Christmas Day,
I made no place for Jesus then—
Oh, let Him pass this way again!
