

Newspaper-In-Education Week

In cooperation with the International Reading Association and the American Newspaper Publishers Association, Governor Hunt has proclaimed February 21-27 as Newspaper-in-Education Week in North Carolina.

The proclamation reads: WHEREAS, the American Newspaper Publishers Association and the International Reading Association have designated February 21-27 as Newspaper-in-Education Week; and

WHEREAS, newspaper-in-education programs have been implemented by over 500 United States papers, with publications offered for schoolroom use at half-price, along with free teacher and student supplements; and

WHEREAS, the goal of the programs is to develop future generations of informed and intelligent newspaper readers and to promote appreciation of the newspaper's role in the democratic society; and

will participate in the week's observance by offering special educational events, and the state representatives from the American Newspaper Publishers Association and the North Carolina Council of International Reading Association will help many papers develop programs; now THEREFORE, I, James B. Hunt, Jr., Governor of the State of North Carolina, do hereby proclaim February 21-27, 1983, as Newspaper-In-Education Week in North Carolina and urge all citizens to take cognizance of the special events arranged for this time in recognition of the newspaper as an educational tool.

James B. Hunt, Jr. This special week will provide an opportunity for us to emphasize the newspaper as a valuable reading aid and to encourage our students to read the newspaper daily. We hope the local newspapers will feature positive news about our schools through out the week.

Mrs. Rachel K. Kinlaw

Mrs. Kinlaw To Speak

A special program has been planned on "Getting the Most From Your Meat Dollar." Mrs. Rachel Kinlaw, extension food specialist with N.C. Agricultural Extension Service will present the program on consumer buying tips. Mrs. Kinlaw will show you how to cut several meats (beef and pork), discuss tenderness and preparation methods. "Money Control" Course Planned

By Theresa T. Ford
Home Economics
Extension Agent

The Agricultural Extension Service is offering you a home study course in "Money Control." Its purpose is to guide you or your family in developing sound money management practices for getting the most from your income. This course consists of lessons with activities that deal with basic principles and methods of sound money management. Therefore it is suitable for single persons or families, and for those with regular incomes or with seasonal incomes.

If you are interested in this course or know of someone who may be interested please call the Extension Office (482-8431) to sign-up. We have a limited supply of packets.

Poetry Contest Is Underway

Poems are now being accepted for the sixth annual poetry contest sponsored by CSS Publications. The top 150 poems will be published in a book of poetry to be released this coming fall.

The theme of the contest is "human emotions" and is open to all ages. Cash prizes totaling $100 will be awarded for the best poems.

Poets should submit their poems to CSS Publications, P.O. Box 23-Q, Iowa Falls, Iowa 50126. A nominal entry fee of $3 per poem is required. The deadline is March 15.

CSS Publications' fifth volume resulting from the annual poetry contests, "The Whisper of Dreams", was released in 1982 and contains 200 poems by 160 poets from 26 states across the nation. Last year, CSS Publications also published "The Rhyme & Reason of Curt Sytsma".

Local Women Selected As Outstanding Young Women Of America

The Board of Advisors for the Outstanding Young Women of America Awards Program announced the women selected for inclusion in the 1982 edition of "Outstanding Young Women of America."

Those locally honored include:

Martha Jo Hollowell, Box 209, Edenton; Sandra Nixon Boyce, Route 1, Box 246, Edenton; Suzanne George Palmer, Country Club Drive; Janet Sadler Smith, Route 1, Box 192B; Leigh Cooke Ambrose, 45 Hawthorne Road, Edenton; Teresa Harris Wackelin, Route 2, Bella Vista, Edenton; and Elizabeth Burke Ricks, 121 West Eden Street, Edenton.

The Outstanding Young Women of America program is designed to honor and encourage exceptional young women between the ages of 21 and 36 who have distinguished themselves in their homes, their professions and their communities. Accomplishments such as these are the result of dedication, service and leadership—qualities which deserve to be recognized and remembered.

This is the goal of the many leading women's organizations, college alumni associates and public officials who nominate deserving young women to participate in the program. Serving as Chairman of the Program's Advisory Board is Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, honorary president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The women listed, along with approximately 23,000 fellow Outstanding Young Women of America from across the United States, will be presented in the prestigious annual awards volume. In addition, they are now being considered for one of the fifty-one state awards to be presented to those women who have made the most noteworthy contributions in their individual states. From these fifty-one state winners, the Ten Outstanding Young Women of America will be chosen. The ten national winner will be honored at the annual awards luncheon held in Washington, D.C.

Second Lt. Valentine Completes Course

Second Lt. Carl L. Valentine, son of Rosa Valentine, 123 West Freemason Street, Edenton, has completed an air defense artillery officer basic course at the U.S. Army Air Defense School, Fort Bliss, Tx.

The course provided training in the operations and tactics of the Army's air defense weapons system. Instruction also is included in nuclear weapons and communications, supply and maintenance procedures, and air defense field exercises.

Valentine is a 1982 graduate of N.C. Agriculture and Technical State University in Greensboro.

Jaycees To Hold Annual Awards Weekend Ceremonies Friday

The N.C. Jaycees will hold their Annual Awards Weekend Ceremonies on February 18, at the Airport Hilton Inn in Greensboro. The purpose of the events are to recognize and honor those outstanding young men and women from across North Carolina who have developed their leadership potential and achieved success through contributions made to families, communities, churches, and professions.

Special guest for the Friday Night Banquet will be U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms. Sen. Helms will deliver the keynote address to the group and assist in the presentation of the Outstanding Young Educator, Outstanding Young Farmer, and Jaycee Boss of the Year Awards.

State Sen. Robert B. Jordan, III, will address the group during Saturday's Luncheon Program. Sen. Jordan will also be assisting in awards presentations to the Outstanding Young Law Enforcement Officer, Outstanding Young Rescuer, Outstanding Young Correctional Officer, and the Outstanding Young Firefighter.

Past President of the North Carolina Jaycees, Gus Tullos, will be the featured speaker for the Saturday Night Banquet at which the Five Outstanding Young Men and Five Outstanding Young Women in North Carolina for 1982 will be honored. Tullos, from Rocky Mount, was President of the North Carolina Jaycees during 1974-1975, and was recognized in 1976 as one of the Five Outstanding Young men of North Carolina.

Assisting the Jaycees with the presentation and sponsorships of these programs are American Defender Life Insurance Company, Nantahala Power and Light Company, Carolina Power and Light Company, Virginia Electric and Power Company, Duke Power Company, and the George W. Little Insurance Agency.

With chapters located in 210 communities across North Carolina, Jaycees are constantly striving to provide their members with leadership training through com-
