

Holmes Student Council News

by Pat Halsey
The students and faculty of John A. Holmes attended a performance of the North Carolina Symphony, Friday, February 25. The symphony, which was in town for a performance on February 24, at 8:00 P.M., performed selections from Handel, Joplin, Mozart and Mendelssohn. The concert choir at Holmes, under the direction of Shelby Strother, was allowed to perform with the symphony. The symphony will be under the direction of Mr. James Olge. Mrs. Gloria Bryant, an English teacher at John A. Holmes, has been chosen as teacher of the year. Nominations were made by the faculty, and the junior class voted for the best candidate. The Student Council would like to congratulate Mrs. Bryant on her accomplishments.

Ernest Riddick, a Senior at Holmes has advanced to the state finals in wrestling after pinning a young man from Hoggard High School in 1.59 minutes during the regionals in Goldsboro. The state final was held in Winston Salem on February 25-26. Placing third in the state wrestling finals at Winston-Salem, he won after defeating his last opponent by a pin. Ernest who was All Albemarle, All East and All Conference in football, certainly has some fine sports achievements.

STUDENTS vs. FACULTY, Wednesday, March 9, at 7:00 P.M. The students of John A. Holmes will compete against the faculty in a game of basketball. The game sponsored by the Student Council will be held in the gymnasium at Holmes.

The track team of Holmes will travel to Williamston for the first track meet of the season, March 10.

Finally, March 10-11 have been declared to be teacher work days. Students will have a long holiday and we would like to encourage adults to be more careful as there will be increase in the normal traffic flow.

Make Believe Friends

by Theresa T. Ford
Home Economics Extension Agent
If your child suddenly announces the arrival of a make-believe friend, don't be upset. Imaginary friends are common among two-to-five year olds, especially when they need help coping with a problem.

For example, these make-believe friends often appear when a child is left behind after playmates start school, or if there's nobody to play with. And sometimes preschoolers use these make-believe companions to get attention. Or they may invent friends as a means of learning more about themselves. In this case, the make-believe friend helps a child learn to express his feelings in words. Now some of these imaginary friends stay for a long time - others leave within a few days. But whatever the length of their stay, you as a parent, need to be calm, accept the friends and listen to your child.

Try to decide why your child needed a make-believe friend. Then decide whether or not you need to take action. If your child wants to spend more time with you, try to involve him in some of your daily activities. And if he needs a good listener, take time to hear him out.

Once the need that forced the arrival of the make-believe friend is taken care of, your youngster won't need that imaginary playmate any longer. And someday that make-believe companion will just disappear; probably never to be heard from again.

Card Of Thanks

I want to thank my friends, neighbors, and family, for the prayers, cards, visits, and flowers I received during my stay in the Chowan Hospital. I thank Dr. Lane and Dr. Mattox and the wonderful nurses for the care they gave me.

I also appreciate the prayers and cards from the different churches. It made my stay in the hospital much brighter.
