Child Fingerprinting

RALEIGH—Winn-Dixie stores announced a state-wide voluntary program of child identification to be called Project "Identi-Child".

The project will provide parents with an identification card which will feature their child's fingerprints and other pertinent data. The card becomes the personal property of the family to be turned over to law enforcement officials for positive identification in the event the child is lost or missing.

To participate, a parent or guardian simply accompanies his or her child to any of the 162 North Carolina Winn-Dixie Stores. There, a Winn-Dixie employee will transfer the child's fingerprints to an "Identi-Child" card. The card is then returned to the parent to fill in other identifying information on the child such as hair and eye color, birth marks, etc. The card becomes the sole property of the parents to be used totally at their discretion. Winn-Dixie keeps no records of any kind and there is no charge for their service.

L. G. Libby, Winn-Dixie Vice President and Corporate Security Director, in announcing the program, said he believes Winn-Dixie is providing a needed public service. "The problem of identifying missing children is a serious one, and as far as we can determine, no one is providing this service on a statewide basis. Statistics show that over 1,000,000 children are missing nationally each year and that 150,000 are never found," Libby added.

Winn Dixie's Project "Identi-Child" will be conducted on a test basis. "However," Libby stated, "if the public responds well, Winn-Dixie will provide this as an on-going service as long as needed."

Crime Control and Public Safety Secretary, Heman R. Clark, says the program can be of tremendous value in helping to identify missing children.

L.D. Hyde, Director Of The Crime Prevention Division, gives the Winn-Dixie program his department's full endorsement. "We know this will be

Atlantic Forest Footage Records Broken

During the week of March 7th the Processing employees at Atlantic Forest Products broke two board footage records. The first record was an increase of 5,000 board feet in one workday. The second record was an increase of over 14,000 board feet in one work week. These records follow ones set in January and February. In February, there was an increase of 20,000 lineal feet per shift. It was most outstanding that this record was broken with the help of employees from the Bagmill, Post and Rail Mill, and Sawmill, employees who were shifted from their regular jobs.

These records were preceded by increased production throughout the entire mill despite lower manning levels. Atlantic Forest Products' logging crew upped daily production 27% in 1982. This February the Sawmill increased production 10% over January and the Post and Rail Mill increased daily production 31%. Not to be left out, the Bagmill set a new record last week by bagging over 6,400 bags of mulch in one workday.

Regional Film Foundation Awards Grant To N.C. School Of Arts

The Charles E. Culpeper Foundation of New York has given the North Carolina School of the Arts a $16,270 grant for a listening system to aid the hearing impaired during performances at the Stevens Center for the Performing Arts. According to Robert Suderburg, NCSA chancellor, the grant will cover the cost of the equipment and its installation.

"The Stevens Center is the first theatre in North Carolina to offer this special feature for the hearing impaired," Suderburg said. The Sennheiser System, which was installed during renovation of Stevens Center is considered the most advanced system available. Even someone with a 75 per cent hearing loss can enjoy performances from anywhere in the theatre.

Sound from the theatre's master system is converted

Anonymous Gift Received

Meredith College has received an anonymous gift valued at $2.2 million, the largest single gift received by the Baptist-related women's college, Meredith president John E. Weems has announced.

"This will have a great impact on our college community. It reaffirms the strength of our past, the faith in our present, and the hopeful vision of our future," Dr. Weems said. "We see this gift not only an investment in what we are doing at Meredith College but as an undergirding of private higher education in general. Meredith is indeed fortunate to have such a benefactor," Dr. Jerry McGee, vice presi-

Opposes Deregulation

Statement by Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham concerning the Tobacco Deregulation Bill sponsored by Representative Petri, March 8, 1983.

I am absolutely opposed to the proposed tobacco deregulation bill sponsored by Representative Thomas Petri of Wisconsin. His bill would end the program of allotments and price supports which have been working features of the tobacco program since its inception.

I feel this action was taken by Rep. Petri as a publicity-seeking gimmick, since I find it hard to understand how someone with Petri's constituency - largely urban, non-agricultural - would even have any interest in a crop grown in the Southeast, much less how it was grown. This bill, I feel, is the covert action attributable to the anti-smoking interests and certain tobacco growers who are being used under the guise of changing the tobacco program to suit their individual needs, not those in the best interest of the total tobacco industry.

Representative Petri is taking advantage of the fragmentation of the tobacco industry to seek an end to the tobacco program, an end that would irreparably harm the economies of the producers involved and those of the agri-industries in those states. Many people depend solely on the income they derive from tobacco production, just as Petri's Wisconsin dairymen do.
