

PROJECT "IDENTI-CHILD" COMES TO EDENTON—Winn-Dixie has announced the implementation of a state-wide project to give parents pertinent data on their children in a convenient card form. Pictured here is Jennifer Boucher getting "inklessly" fingerprinted by Chief Parrish, of the Edenton Police Department, as he helps the local Winn-Dixie store kick off its "Identi-Child" project. Also pictured are Jerry Boucher, Jennifer's father and the Manager of Winn-Dixie, and Doug Pike, assistant manager of Winn-Dixie. (Story on Page 8-B)

ECSU To Hold Fundraiser

"Scholarcade '83," the show of the year at Elizabeth City State University, is set for Sunday, March 27, at 6:00 P.M. in Williams Hall gymnasium. Since the show is "back by popular demand," an even larger audience is anticipated from the one which watched last year's thrilling, two-and-one-half hour performance.

"Scholarcade '83," a wide-ranging display of talent, seeks to accomplish two objectives. First of all, proceeds from the show, in its third year, will help increase EC-

SU's ability to recruit top-level, high achieving students. As a result of proceeds from two previous productions, three students are currently enrolled, on full scholarships, at ECSU.

"Since students who have excelled academically, like top-rated athletes, go where the money is, we need to continually expand our resources in order to be more competitive," Dr. Jimmy R. Jenkins, Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs, stressed.

Secondly, "Scholarcade '83" certainly gives the public an excellent opportunity to see professionals in roles other than teaching classes, administering programs, preparing reports, etc. The show brings together a long list of ECSU administrative, faculty, staff and student personnel who, "seeing the need, have answered the call from Vice Chancellor Jenkins." Thus, the public will again come closer to more fully realizing that college professors can do much more than lecture on Einstein's theory of relativity or Dewey's philosophy of education.

Dr. Jenkins and, possibly, two other Vice Chancellors plan to leave their desks to head the long list of performers in this year's show which includes fashions, instrumental music, skits, vocal selections, dances, skits and a "high kicking" chorus line.

Persons desiring advance tickets to "Scholarcade '83," Sunday, March 27, should contact any ECSU employee. Admission prices have been set at $5.00 for adults and $2.50 for students. Door prizes will be awarded lucky ticket holders.

Completes Class

Navy Electrician's Mate Fireman Antonio R. Biggs, son of Rebecca Davis of Rt. 2, Roper, N.C., has completed the Basic Electrician's Mate Course.

During the self-paced course at the Service School Command, Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill., the students received instruction on electrical theory and studied the operating principles of the batteries, generators, motors, and transformers used aboard ships and at shore installations. The course was designed to provide a thorough understanding of the operation, maintenance, and repair of electrical systems.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
The UNC Center for Public Television is currently holding Festival '83, its annual fund-raising drive. This year's goal, $1.2 million, is needed to update and maintain equipment, and to provide such varied programs as Sesame Street, Stateline, Nova, Masterpiece Theatre and American Playhouse, Dr. Who, The Mark Russell Specials, The World at War, Soundstage, and the Woodwright's Shop. These shows and many others must be purchased from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting or produced at the state level, and they are very expensive.

The people who work at Festival '83 are all volunteers. Even the Center employees you see on the air are there on their own time. I had the opportunity to meet and work with some of these people, and I was very impressed with their dedication. But they can't do it without the support of the viewers. Last year, only 3% of the Center's viewers made pledges. This year we must do much better. In the first ten days of Festival, only nine pledges were received from Chowan County. Surely there are more people in this county who watch public tv!

I realize that money is tight, but even a small pledge would be greatly appreciated. After all, if each of the Center's estimated million and a half viewers sent in a dollar, we will have surpassed our goal. If you watch public television, please help foot the bill. If you don't watch it, try it, and "see how great tv can be."

How can you help? Call 1-962-1212. A volunteer will take your name, address, and the amount of your pledge. Then you'll receive a pledge packet in the mail which will include a self-addressed envelope. Simply put your check in the envelope and mail it. If you prefer, you can charge it to your Visa or MasterCard, or pay in monthly installments. Of course, you can always mail your check directly to The UNC Center for Public Television, PO Box 4150, Chapel Hill, NC 27514. With every pledge you'll receive Centerpiece, the monthly programming guide.

Festival continues through March 20, but contributions are always cheerfully accepted. Please be generous.

Sincerely,
Marcy Ashton

1969 with the inception of its residency training program. During the initial period of the specialty, (then) general practitioners were allowed to take a certification examination and become family physicians. Now, however, all must complete a three-year family practice residency training program.

Family practice is the nation's largest medical specialty, comprising over 54,000 family physicians. (A service of the N.C. Academy of Family Physicians).

The Board of Chowan County Commissioners will meet with the Division of Civil Preparedness on Tuesday, March 22, 1983 at 7:30 A.M. at Boswell's Restaurant, Edenton, N.C.
