NAGS HEAD—The 11th Annual Hang Gliding Spectacular will be held here at Jockey's Ridge State Park, May 13-15. This gliding spec-as they can and still hit a target in the landing area about the size of a frisbee. Also, flyers will attempt to see who can fly the greatest from hang glider and airplane technology. They take off on land or water under their own power. In the aviation industry, they are considered the sport aircraft of the future.

In addition to the ultralights, we will demonstrate Land Winch Towing using the new three-ring tow bridle. This will be a great chance for flatlanders to get as much or more air time than mountain pilots.

Francis M. Rogallo, inventor of the "Rogallo wing" used in hang gliding kite construction today, lives at Kitty Hawk and will take an active part in the annual event.

Information about competition and registration can be obtained from Katherine Martin, Kitty Hawk Kites, P.O. Box 340, Nags Head, N.C. 27959.

SHARP SHOOTERS—The John A. Holmes Shooting Team took second place in the rifle competition and tenth overall as it competed with 79 other teams in rifle, shotgun and bow at the Fifth Annual North Carolina Hunter Safety Shooting Tournament on April 23. Shown above are Ed Alstor, Rodney Chappell, Kevin Bunch, Wayne Tynch and Jerry Stotesbury.

tacular is distinguished as the oldest continuously held hang gliding competition in the United States.

Staged from atop the highest natural sand dunes on the Atlantic Coast at Jockey's Ridge, the non-profit event is sponsored by the Dare County Jaycees and Kitty Hawk Kites.

Duration, distance and target competition for more than 50 gliders will be conducted on Friday, and Saturday, with Sunday as a rain date.

Mark Airey, director of the spectacular, explains, "competition will consist of both duration/target events and distance trials. Pilots will be trying to stay airborne as long distance from the peak of Jockey's Ridge." The present Outer Banks hang gliding duration record is 5 hours and 20 minutes.

Orville and Wilbur Wright chose this area of North Carolina's Outer Banks for their famous flight experiments from 1900 to 1903, climaxed by their historic powered flight at Kitty Hawk which provided the birth of aviation as we know it today. At this year's Gliding Spectacular, ultralight aircraft will be repeating history when they fly their motorized aircraft for a demonstration at the end of the glider competition each day. Ultralights are essentially light weight airplanes which have evolved

by Sarah Harrell Trexler
The class of 1934 held its annual reunion on April 30, at Jimmie's Barbeque in Sunbury. We were joined in our reunion by the 1935 graduating class.

After the service the lighted candles were carried to their wives.

Mrs. Perry presented each member a copy of some meaningful bits and pieces of Hallett's life and his death. One line read:
