

Phillip R. Morrow
Named Director

Phillip R. Morrow has been named director of family services for the Baptist Children's Homes of NC, Inc. This announcement comes from Drs. W. R. and Elizabeth Wagoner.

Morrow succeeds Dr. Elizabeth Wagoner, who will complete her responsibilities with the Homes July 1, 1983, at the time Dr. W.R. Wagoner finishes his tenure as president.

As director of family services, Morrow will supervise the operation of the seven family services centers, located in Thomasville, Raleigh, Pembroke, Charlotte, Kinston, and the coastal and western areas of the state.

Prior to joining the staff of the Children's Homes, Morrow served as a pastor in Oxford and the Thomasville area for 12 years.

Since coming to the Homes in 1973 he has held the positions of social worker, unit director, at Mills Home in Thomasville, director of the model family services center in Charlotte, and associate director of family services.

"The family services concept," says Dr. W.R. Wagoner, "is one of the significant directions of the Homes during its recent history. Phillip Morrow understands the concept, has the talent and ability to deliver services and to assure continuity and growth for this method of delivery of services."

Morrow is married to the former Jewel Mundy, who serves as a social services secretary of the Mills Home staff. They have a daughter, Mrs. Rose Marie Bibeau of Charlotte, and a son, Phillip Ray.

Jenkins Appointed Vice Chancellor

Dr. William C. Friday, president of the University of North Carolina system, announces the appointment of Dr. Jimmy R. Jenkins, vice chancellor for academic affairs, as Acting Chancellor of Elizabeth City State University, "effective immediately."

In making the announcement, President Friday indicated that "Dr. Jenkins agreed to serve as acting chancellor until the UNC Board of Governors picks a successor to the late Marion Dennis Thorpe, Chancellor." The announcement came just one day after funeral services for Dr. Thorpe were held May 2, in Durham.

"Mr. Lroy Frazier and I have been talking with each other about establishment of a Search Committee which will later make recommendations to the Board of Governors," Dr. Friday added. Frazier, of Durham, is chairman of the ECSU Board of Trustees, whose next scheduled meeting is set for June 21. "With deep humility and appreciation, I accept the challenge with the hope of further assuring a smooth transition in the administration of this University," Dr. Jenkins stated in accepting the appointment.

A native of Selma, and a 1968 graduate of ECSU, Dr. Jenkins holds graduate and doctoral degrees from Purdue University where, in 1969, he was a National Science Foundation Fellow. Returning to his alma mater as an Assistant Professor of Biology, in 1971, and after rising to the rank of Professor, he was named Assistant Academic Dean for Administration. Six years ago, he was appointed vice chancellor for academic affairs.
