

Community Watch Programs Are Growing

On February 10, 1982, the Chowan County Community Watch Association was officially formed. At the present time, there are approximately 25 different communities in Chowan County with membership in this association.

Mr. L. D. Hyde, Director Crime Prevention Division, N.C. Department of Crime Control & Public Safety, has stated, "Positive action which heightens the awareness of crime and its prevention is valuable. Teaching citizens specific characteristics of crime and prevention is more valuable. The overall goal of crime prevention should be to show citizens how to combine awareness and technique to create action programs for individual communities."

Every citizen is a member of the community. Only an alert citizenry can stop crime. Police usually respond only after a crime has occurred. And, if present budget trends continue, there will be fewer and fewer police to do even that. No matter how capable police are, they cannot be everywhere all the time. So it's in the hands of citizens. Citizens are learning the tools for reducing the desire and the opportunity to commit crime.

Preventing crime in Chowan County is not a goal set too high, nor is it a goal that is unachievable. Contact the Chowan County Sheriff's Department at 482-8484 or the Edenton Police Department at 482-4444 for information concerning organizing a Community Watch Program in your neighborhood. Help make COMMUNITY WATCH work in Chowan County!

Horn, the quintet performs music education concerts within the primary school system and more than 60 advanced music clinics per year on the secondary and college levels. ### Holley Signs With Lenoir Lancers

Coach Bobby Ray Dawson of the Lenoir Community College Lancers announced the signing of Steve Holley, 20, of Edenton, a point guard with "quickness and ball-handling dexterity."

Holley attended John A. Holmes High in Edenton, N.C., where he compiled an enviable record, and also attended the Rangers Junior High School in Texas one semester last year. His athletic record includes Most Outstanding Offensive Back, playing quarterback; All-Conference, All-Albemarle Player, Most Valuable Player in basketball; Most Valuable Player in Pizza Hut weekly competition, All-American High School Athlete, won the high school basketball award, the trophy case award and basketball efficiency award, earned letters three years in basketball and football.

Holley compiled a 15-points-per game scoring record his senior year in basketball, grabbed 98 steals and 112 assists. He has a brother who plays football with the Washington Federals. Holley plans to major in physical education and he is 5 feet, 11 inches tall and weighs 165 pounds.

Coach Dawson said he was very pleased to have Holley on the roster for next season. He noted the youth can penetrate the opposition, plays unselfishly and has a good shooting record from outside. He anticipates his ability to spell point guard Antonio McCray next year and to speed up the fast break for the Lancers.

Elizabeth II Ticket Sales

Beginning May 18th, students in participating schools across North Carolina will have an opportunity to buy, at a special price, an admission ticket to board the Elizabeth II in Manteo.

Proceeds from the sale of tickets will be used to outfit the ship with articles typical of those carried on board vessels of the 16th century; arms and armor, navigational instruments, casks and barrels, fireplace equipment; baggage, tools and mess gear. All items will be carefully reproduced by craftsmen to insure authenticity and used especially for interpretive programs to students.

The Elizabeth II, named for a ship used on an early voyage from England to Roanoke Island, is being constructed on the waterfront at Manteo, N.C. As the focal point of America's 400th Anniversary, the vessel will depict the lives of early voyagers and hardships endured by settlers on long ocean voyages in vessels of this period.

The program is being sponsored by the Friends of Elizabeth II in cooperation with the Departments of Cultural Resources and Public Instruction, Local 400th Anniversary chairmen across the state have volunteered to serve as contacts in their counties to work with school boards in their communities. Mrs. Dorothy Graham, Chowan County 400th Anniversary Chairman, and her committee are working with Dr. John Dunn and the local schools on this project.
