

Rule Changes Are Proposed

Applicants will get faster answers on both emergency and regular permits under the Coastal Area Management Act (CAMA) if the Coastal Resources Commission adopts rule changes scheduled for public hearing at its regular meeting June 15-17 in Wilmington at the Hilton Inn.

These proposals call for reducing processing times for both CAMA major and State Dredge and Fill permits from 90 to 75 days and shortening CAMA minor permit reviews from 30 to 25 days. The rule amendments would also allow the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development to issue emergency CAMA permits for work to protect life and structural property in imminent danger as a result of storms or failure of man-made structures. Recent actions of the General Assembly have made these changes possible.

Also the commission will continue its discussion of a proposal to increase setback distances for large immovable structures built along the oceanfront. Increased setbacks have been suggested to reduce potential damage from erosion and storms and to protect access rights to the public beach.

Thursday morning the commission's two task forces will meet. The mitigation task force will continue its discussion of when and how to allow developers to take special steps to offset environmental losses caused by projects which have important public benefits. The high-density development task force will meet for the first time to consider the unique problems brought on when more and more buildings are placed in small areas on barrier islands.

In committee meetings Thursday afternoon, the commission will: consider a system of general permits for routine projects under the Coastal Area Management Act; discuss increasing application fees for large developments which need CAMA permits; discuss the use of "artificial seaweed" for erosion control along the oceanfront; review the land use plan for Boiling Spring Lakes and a plan amendment from the City of Jacksonville; receive any public comments on these plans and receive an update on local governments' planning grant applications for 1983-84.

What's Wrong With Youth?

Dear Youth of Chowan County:

On Friday night, May 27 the Chowan-Edenton Optimist Club provided YOU with a dance featuring a top name Dance Band at the National Guard Armory. It seems that you have complained in the past that the Town of Edenton had no facilities or opportunities for our youth to enjoy themselves, and when an opportunity arises what do you chose to do? You do not support this chance to prove your point!

This should have been the opportunity you were seeking, but it turned out to be a big embarrassment towards the youth of our community. In an effort to help you as young members of our society the Edenton-Chowan Optimist continually seeks to provide you w/wholesome and enjoyable activities to occupy your time. The major question is: What is it that you want? What can they do that hasn't been done?

Any member of the Optimist Club will be receptive to any constructive suggestions through their genuine concern for your well being.

Exercise your rights, SPEAK YOUR THOUGHTS!
Sincerely,
Ken M. Castellon
