COUNCIL ENGLISH TEACHERS MEET AT GREENSBORO

Discuss Problems of the High Schools; Noted Lecturer Heard

Greensboro, March 14.—The N. C. Council of English Teachers met at the North Carolina College for women on Friday and Saturday, the 9th and 10th. This council is concerned with the problems of English teaching in the state, and is endeavoring to assist in the organization of English in the high schools. It is also concerned with the relationships of high school and college and its membership is made up of the leading English teachers in both high school and college. At the meeting here many practical talks and discussions were given. Such topics were considered as measuring achievements in English teaching, the problems of college entrance examinations Saturday morning of the day, and there were round table discussion Saturday morning of many high school problems. Professor Howell, of the University of North Carolina, Department of English, presented the report of the committee which has been studying conditions of English teaching in over a hundred schools of the state.

Miss Maude Royden, the famous English woman preacher and lecturer spoke at the North Carolina College on March 13. Miss Royden is regarded as one of the greatest women speakers living, and her coming was eagerly looked forward to. She is assistant rector of the city temple in London, and has an international reputation as a pulpit orator.

Myra Hess, noted pianist, will appear at the college on April 19, at the time of the high school music contest here. The high school students and teachers who will come to Greensboro for this musical contest on April 19 and 20 will be entertained by the college at Miss Hess's concert. She will be assisted by Dmitry Dobkin, Russian tenor. The musical contest this year is open to all the high schools of the state, and each high school is privileged to send a representative to Greensboro for the state-wide contest in April.

Special Subscription Offer

For the next few weeks a full year's subscription to THE SOUTHERN AGRICULTURIST will be given absolutely FREE with every subscription or renewal to The Cherokee Scout at the regular price of $1.50. In other words, you can get your Home Paper and a good semi-monthly farm paper for the price of The Cherokee Scout.

Obviously we cannot hold open this offer long. It is made in order to stimulate interest in your Home Paper and to advance agricultural progress in the County.

Agriculture is the chief source of wealth in this section. It should be stimulated and encouraged. The County Commissioners have recently employed a County Farm Demonstrator to help the farmers with their farm problems. Even though he will give his entire time to advising with farmers, still every farmer should have a good farm paper.

Also, every family in the county should be interested in what is happening in the county. The best way to do this is by reading your County Paper—
