

Beautiful and Easy to Lay

If you want an unusually handsome but very economical roof, you'll want Barrett Everlastic Octagonal Strip Shingles. Their shape is novel—their rugged mineral surface in rich red, cool green or blue-black is most attractive. And they are inexpensive to apply because they are laid in strips of four instead of singly.

Everlastic Octagonal Strip Shingles are extremely durable and fire-resistant. Their price is moderate. There is no maintenance cost to consider as they need no painting.

Let us estimate on that new roof.

Convict Escapes On Last Saturday

Claud Picklesimer, who was serving a sentence of 12 months on the roads of Cherokee County, escaped Saturday when the force was at work on the Notia road, a short distance from Murphy. There were about 8 prisoners at work at the time and only one guard, but as all the prisoners wore shackles, it was not thought likely that any would escape. Claud, with the permission of the guard, was allowed to step aside for a minute, and apparently he forced the lock on the shackles or else used a key to unlock them, for shortly after Picklesimer had stepped out of the road, he was found missing and the shackles were found in a clump of underbrush.

Native of China Lectures in County

Rev. B. S. Ding, a native of China and an ordained minister of the gospel, drew a capacity house at the Baptist Church Sunday night when he lectured on the conditions in China and told some of his personal experiences as a minister in his own land. He made a similar address at Andrews Sunday morning; then on Monday night he repeated the lecture in the Peachtree Baptist Church, and on Tuesday he spoke in the Marble Baptist Church. Although Mr. Ding spoke a broken English, he was understandable and extremely interesting, and at times his lecture became very pathetic. He held the rapt attention of his great audience in the Baptist church here for more than an hour.

Barbecue at Gardner Road Camp in Georgia

A big barbecue dinner was held at the Gardner Road Camp, about four miles from Bellevue on the Bellevue-Blairsville road, connecting with the road from Murphy, Thursday at 12 o'clock. State Highway officials from Atlanta and Gainesville were at the dinner, as well as a large delegation from Blairsville and the country round about. Several visitors attended from Murphy.

The barbecue was given by Mr. Gardener and was a sort of celebration over the fine work being done on the new road, which is fast being completed. The surfacing has not yet begun, but the grading is now approaching the river and will be completed, it is thought, in the fall.

Everybody here is anxious to see the State highway completed.

There is a Road Out Peaches Way— That is as Rough as a Storm at Sea!

On this road there are 5 houses occupied by 5 families, all staunch customers of ours.

Now, let's see; it would be lots easier for these folks to drop a line to Atlanta or to head for Gainesville, Ga., for Gainesville is nearer by miles and better traveling.

The other day we asked one of the heads of a family why he chose to bump up and down to come here and he replied that it was such smooth sailing only he got to our door.
