

WHY HUNTERS SHOULD PREVENT FOREST FIRES

By Carl I. Peterson, District Warden
At this season of the year with the fire hazard at its height and hunters taking to the woods, the importance of forest fire prevention cannot be over emphasized.

DANGERS OF A COLD

Murphy People Will Do Well to Heed Them.
Many Bad Cases of kidney trouble result from a cold or chill.

Mrs. Chas. C. Bell, 95 Woodrow Ave., Asheville, N. C., says: "My kidneys were always weak and if I over-worked or took cold it settled on them and my back ached as if it would break. I could get no relief day or night. My work was often neglected because I was in such misery. I was hardly ever free from dizzy headaches. My kidneys acted irregularly and my feet and ankles swelled. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and I have never had anything to do me so much good. My back was soon strong and free from pain. The swelling left and my kidneys were regulated."

Statistics show that the hunter is a large number of fires in the western counties of the State each year. Instead of his presence in the woods being a sign of danger, it should mean an alleviation of that risk.

The prosperity of the western counties of the State is wrapped up in the preservation of a growing crop of timber on their forest lands. The lumber and wood using industries, if they are to be reined in his season of the Sae, must be supplied with a continuous supply of tree growth.

Recreational possibilities and important waterpower developments are sure to unfold in the future. If the charming beauty of our tree clad hills and mountains which attract the tourists is to be retained forest fires must be kept out of them. The part that forests play in regulating streamflow is common knowledge.

The responsibility for keeping our immense amount of forest land productive devolves upon each individual citizen since the common welfare is concerned. The primary step in this direction is the prevention of forest fires.

Forest fires have been outlawed in the State of North Carolina, and every other progressive state in the Union has recognized the fallacy of burning the woods by declaring it illegal. And the citizen who is concerned with the welfare of his county, state and nation, will do his bit toward preserving one of our most important natural resources by keeping fire out of the woods.
