FARMS USING RADIO NEAR 150,000 MARK

Survey Reveals Its Value in Agriculture—Stations Broadcast Special Farm Information.

The rapidity with which radio has spread in farming communities is revealed by a recent survey made by the United States Department of Agriculture. County agents estimate that there are approximately 40,000 radio sets in 700 counties. This is an average of fifty-seven sets per county. Applying the average to 2,850 agricultural counties, a total of more than 145,000 sets on farms throughout the country is estimated. The survey covers every state in the Union.

Radio broadcasting stations, and there are now about 600 licensed stations in the country, devote part of their programs to the interests of the farmer. WGY, the General Electric Company's station at Schenectady, N. Y., reads daily produce market quotations, weather reports and gives out other information of value to the farmer. During the month of July a special harvest weather report was sent out each noon, and Arlington time signals are broadcast daily at noon.

A new feature of interest to farmers has just been announced by WGY. On the last Monday evening of each month there will be a special talk on farm bureaus and farm information, which will be given from 7:15 to 7:45 o'clock, eastern standard time. This has been arranged in co-operation with the New York State Farm Bureau Federation.

That the farmers appreciate the broadcast reports is daily brought to the attention of the management of WGY through letters. H. A. Williams, living on R. F. D. No. 1, Bethel, Vt., recently wrote as follows: "I beg to advise you that your weather forecasts are valuable to a farmer like myself, as they enable us to govern our harvesting movements more successfully than we could do if we did not have a general idea of weather prospects. Your reports give us from 24 to 36 hours advance information. We appreciate the benefits we receive in this way."

Lynn Brown, a farmer at Rosebloom, N. Y., wrote: "We are farmers and greatly enjoy your program. We also like the weather report as it keeps us informed as to the weather for a day. This is especially important when help is scarce and the radio weather report helps out a lot."

FARMING BY MOTOR

Churn Is One of Modern Farm Devices That Has Been Electrified.

When grandma and grandpa started housekeeping on the old farm, young and lusty in years, it didn't seem such a terrible job to churn four or five gallons of cream, working the handle of the churn up and down, with the cream getting stiffer every minute. But as time went on and the multitude

When Electricity Makes the Butter of other farm chores piled up the churning frequently became one more muscle-acher, the prospect of which didn't always bring smiles.

There are farms today where hand churning is never known. Butter is produced in large quantities and in quick time, with unfailing regularity, but no muscles feel any the stiffer for it. The secret lies in the presence of that little black motor that takes care of all the muscle work and never grows tired or feels used up after hours of work.

The electric motor has entirely altered the aspect of this particular chore, as it has also done in the case of many other farm duties, some of them much heavier than that of churning. The electrified farm can take full advantage of this ingenious arrangement, which helps to save time and thereby make the farm family a family of leisure. And someone has defined leisure as being simply "time to live."

On the Banks of the River Slow

MY FRIEND, have you heard of the town of Foo-Chow
On the Banks of the River Slow,
Where blooms the water-willow flower fair,
Where the sometim' or other scents the air,
And the soft goeays grow?

It lies in the valley of Whattheuse,
In the province of Letter-slide,
And that tired feeling is native there—
It's the home of the reckless Idiotaire,
Where the giveitups abide.

It stands at the bottom of Lazy Hill,
And is easy to reach, I declare,
You've only to fold up your hands and glide
Down the slope of Weekwill's slippery slide
To be landed quickly there.

The town is as old as the human race,
And it grows with the flight of years,
It is wrapped in the fog of Iller's dream,
Its streets are paved with discarded schemes
And sprinkled with useless tears.

The House By the Side of the Road

THERE are hermit souls that lay withdrawn
In the place of their self content;
There are souls like stars that dwell apart
In a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze a path
Where highways never ran;
Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
The men that are good, the men that are bad—
As good and as bad as I.
Then why should I sit in a seamer's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban?
Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

I see from my house by the side of the road—
By the side of the highway of life—
The men that press on with the ardor of hope,
And the men that are faint with the strife;
And I turn not away from their smiles and their tears—
Both part of an infinite plan—
Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

I know there are brook-gladden meadows ahead,
And fountains of wearisome height;
That the road stretches on through the afternoon long,
And passes away in the night,
And still I rejoice when the travelers rejoice,
And weep with the strangers that mourn,
Nor live in my house by the side of the road
Like a man that lives alone.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by.
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong
Wise, foolish; so am I—
Then why should I sit in a seamer's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban?
Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

WHOLE BODY SEEMED IN ONE AWFUL PAIN

Morse, La.—Mrs. L. P. Lambert, who has been a popular school-teacher here for several years, recently told a visitor of her interesting experiences with Cardui.

"Just before my . . . came on," said Mrs. Lambert, "I would ache all over. My feet, my toes, my arms, hands, head—my whole body seemed to be in one awful pain. I would grow so nervous that I could not hold a cup in my hand. My husband would have to hold my coffee for me to drink. Last fall I was in such a bad condition that I had to spend about three days in bed every month. It seemed to me that I was on my last go-round."

Then one day, said Mrs. Lambert, she happened to read about Cardui and the experiences of some women who had been helped by it. "I felt that Cardui might help me if I tried it," she continued, "for I had been suffering with similar troubles to those mentioned there. I had heard of Cardui all my life and I knew many women who said they had been helped by it. The very next day I began to take it.

"Very soon after, I began to notice my improvement. I kept on till I felt like a different woman. I gained in weight from 98 pounds to 115 and felt better than I had in years. I took six bottles right along and found it a splendid tonic. My suffering was partly due to a run-down condition and the Cardui stimulated my appetite and helped me to gain the strength I needed. . . . I take a bottle every now and then, even now, just as a tonic to keep up my strength, but I am in better health than I have been in for years."

All druggists sell Cardui. Try it.
