RED CROSS DUTY TO AID VETERANS

Spends Nearly Four Millions in Year to Lessen Burdens of Disabled Soldiers.

SERVES 63,700 IN HOSPITALS

Every Case is Given Individual Service—Assists Families of These Men Everywhere.

Washington.—The need of individual assistance by ex-service men and their families from the Red Cross is as pressing today as it was immediately after the end of the World War. For six years this work has been foremost of all Red Cross services, and in emphasizing the steady public support of this work the Red Cross National Headquarters urges the largest enrollment this year during the membership campaign opening on Armistice Day, November 11. Nearly four million dollars of Red Cross funds spent for disabled veterans and their dependents during the year ended June 30 last presents some idea of the magnitude of this work. The current year, it is estimated, will call for still further disbursements of funds for the reason that the Red Cross, through more than 3,500 Chapters in as many communities in the United States, has been called upon to help the ex-service men in making out their applications for the adjusted compensation granted in the so-called bonus law.

58,767 Soldier Cases a Month

The Red Cross work for the disabled soldier is designated "home service," for it gives individual attention to the man and his family approximating the interest and loving care of the home. Such service in the hospitals, camps, soldiers' homes and sanatoria, averaged 33,951 cases a month during the year. Assistance to ex-service men and their dependents averaged 58,767 cases a month. In addition, the Red Cross in the last twelve months provided 23,000 recreation and entertainment events in the hospitals and camps.

Thus the Red Cross, symbolized as the "Greatest Mother," still watches over these many thousands of men, comforts them, helps to lighten the tedium of their physical reconstruction, and in their homes lifts some of the burdens from their "own people."

Work in Communities Increases

The home service of the Red Cross was the most pressing duty of 2,609 Chapters, an increase of 182 communities where problems affected by the war veteran's condition required solution through immediate and intelligent assistance. The Chapters alone expended some $2,000,000 in this work.

The transient disabled soldier, usually suffering from disability or tuberculosis, is almost everywhere a grave problem. From national funds the past year $173,076.36 was expended in helping the Chapters to care for these wandering men.

According to government report there are 4,800 veterans in civilian institutions, and in the national homes for soldiers the complications are increasing. The large groups of patients whose claims have been disallowed, of veterans of foreign wars, and the great number of men permanently resident in these institutions call for Red Cross work which cannot be avoided nor denied.

Definite Service to 78,700

Of a total of 84,500 ex-service men in hospitals and other institutions 78,700 were rendered a definite and specialized service by the Red Cross. In a single month 4,185 new cases were presented and a total of 20,125 were acted upon—figures which serve to illustrate the magnitude of the information and claims service engaging the attention of Red Cross workers. New veteran legislation amending the War Risk act which extends many additional rights to disabled ex-service men will reopen thousands of cases and require still greater Red Cross service.

When Congress granted a charter to the American Red Cross it charged the organization with the duty to act as "the medium of communication between the American people and their Army and Navy." This responsibility is met every year without restriction.

Serves Men on Active Service

The extent of this Red Cross activity during the last year embraced a total of 195,246 cases. There were 26,995 separate soldiers' and sailors' claims; 20,316 investigations of home conditions; 11,421 cases related to discharges, furloughs, etc. Assistance was given in 33,658 instances for personal, business or family problems; 744,220 visits were made to the sick or disabled, and nearly 40,000 letters and telegrams dispatched to the homes of enlisted men.

From June to September at the numerous military training camps the Red Cross provided information and home service to the trainees, also instruction in First Aid and Life-Saving. The entertainment and recreation events at the various Army and Navy hospitals reached nearly 9,500 during the year, and occupational therapy in nine Naval hospitals gave constructive and beneficial results and occupied the time of patients in the making of useful and ornamental things.

RICHER LIFE SOUGHT BY FARMING PEOPLE

Comfortable Home, Leisure for Worth While Pleasures, Would Come With Electric Service.

That it is the enrichment of life, in all that this term represents, which the average farmer hopes electricity will ultimately bring him is the reflective opinion of H. W. Riley, professor of rural engineering of the New York State College of Agriculture. Professor Riley, who has lived with farmers and studied their problems for years, appreciates that the immediate ambition of the farmer, in respect to electricity, is to obtain a larger cash return from his farming; but he maintains that the farmer looks beyond this, and has in his mind, as the final goal, a greater share of the stimulating social and mental possibilities of life, which he hopes will come with an increased cash return. Showing that so far as getting through season after season of farm work and actually producing marketable crops is concerned, the farmer could doubtless "get along" if he never secured electric power, Prof. Riley asks why, then, is there such an insistent demand for rural electric lines and what is the real service that electricity from such lines is to render?

"The answer to these questions," he asserts, "can be found readily enough when it is realized that the farmer's central objective in life is the maintenance of an independent and comfortable home, where he and his wife may live, where his children may grow up strong in body and resourceful in mind, and where he may live in peace to the end of his days."

"Money must come in reasonable amounts sometimes, to be sure, or, like any other man, he will not count his work successful, but money is of value to him mainly as it enables him to improve his farm and home and to enjoy some of the pleasures and amenities of modern life. The ready sale of automobiles and small electric light plants to farmers, the extension of country telephone lines, the demand for rural free delivery of mail are instances that prove this point. Now interest is starting to concentrate on the extension of electric power lines into the country for the very evident reason that the whole farming population have seen what electricity has done in the cities and they want the same benefits for themselves.

"The farmers want electricity mainly because they know that it will make their lives better worth the living. They do not want it to cost too much because cash money is scarce with them, but they want it mainly for what it will do for them and not primarily because of a possible low cost for the service."

TAXES THE RAILROADS NOW PAY HIGHER TAXES HIGH COST OF LIVING

Is Your Tax Load Heavy Enough?

If Government Ownership of Railroads should ever be realized in this country, two additional tax burdens would inevitably be thrust upon the American people.

- The Government would have to purchase the railroads at their present value of at least twenty billion dollars, because our constitutional guaranty provides against confiscation.
- The taxes the railroads pay—a million dollars a day—would have to be assumed by the individual taxpayers, because government property is exempt from taxation.

Disregarding any assessment to pay off the stupendous debt of twenty billions, interest thereon at 4% would amount to $800,000,000 per year; this added to the $365,000,000 railway taxes would make a total of $1,165,000,000 that would be saddled on to the people for the questionable benefit of owning the railroads.

The American people are now paying the overwhelming sum of seven billion, seven hundred million dollars in annual taxes. If the Government assumed control of the railroads, and the extra taxes required for their purchase and operation were levied, the annual tax bill of this country would run nearly ten billion dollars; an amount greater than any free people have ever been called upon to pay in the history of the world:
