Directors Announced for Cherokee County For Four-Day Exposition Next November

According to announcement coming from Russell C. Davis, President of the Western North Carolina Livestock and Agricultural Exposition, which is to be held at Asheville on November 10, 11, 12, and 13th, Messrs. H. B. Elliott, B. W. Sipe, T. T. Johnson, and W. H. Hughes, have been selected to represent this county on the board of directors of the exposition.

"In selecting the directors of the exposition," said Mr. Davis in making the announcement, "we were careful to select only men who stand for progress in their community, and who are greatly interested in general farming, and we feel that with the assistance of these men from the county, Cherokee county will be well represented at the exposition next fall."

It is expected that these directors will hold a meeting soon and map out a program which will place Cherokee County in line for the prizes which will be distributed among the entries of the exposition. A booklet will be distributed shortly showing a list of premiums that will be offered and giving other information relative to the exposition.

The livestock and agricultural interests of the county have been making great strides for the past few years, and there is no reason whatever why Cherokee County should not come in for a portion of the prizes next fall.
